CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(Special Dispatch.)
Inside facts have come out about the Fort Sheridan shooting. Lieut. Pague, who on Thursday last fired four shots at Col. Crofton, commandant, continues to remain in solitary confinement in the military prison at the fort. The new phases brought to light favor the imprisoned officer. The most important fact developed since the shooting was given out today by one of the medical attendants attached to the hospital, and under whose care the lleutemant was placed when first arrested.

From the statement made by this attendant, it is evident that Pague was placed in the post hospital on Thursday morning. He made his escape from the ward in which he was confined and was on his way to the house when he was overtaken and returned to the hospital. All day Thursday the lleutenant was restless, but far from showing indications of insanity. Shortly after dinner on the day of the shooting he spoke to the attendant of his troubles and concluded his remarks: "If I could only get out I'll bet I would find that old — in my house, as he is always there when I am out."

on several occasions Mrs. Pague has seen in the colonel's antiquated

Lieut, Pague is confined in a big prison tank in the post guardhouse, and is guarded as though he were a murderer. He is given little or he exercise, and there are officers at the fort who do not hesitate to say that Col. Crofton is overstepping authority in orders regarding the custody of the man who attempted his life.

It is generally admitted that the lieutenant will not be brought before court-martial, as Crofton will be satisfied to see him placed upon the retired list. willingness on the part of the his command has had during the stay at Fort Sheridan.

GEGGLAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The North Atlantic squadron will go to sea sgain in a few days from Chesapeake Bay to resume evolutions. It is probable that the entire squadron, reinforced by the Maine and the Indiana, will continue these evolutions on a larger scale in southern waters during the approaching winter, though the details of the winter cruise have not yet been definitely arranged.

The department has determined to allow Admiral Bunce the widest liberty in this work, which is regarded as of the greatest importance to the navy. For many years the navy has been obliged to content itself with the adoption of such marine tactics included in foreign codes as seemed desirable. So far as these related to individual ships their usefulness has been demonstrated from time to time, but when it came to the great fleet maneuvers, the department was obliged to take them on trust. There has been a distinct difference of opinion among naval officers as to the suitability of many of these rules for our own use and the department has long sought the opportunity to ascertain their value by a practical demonstration. For the first time since we began to build a modern navy the opportunity is now in our reach and this is the work the squadron is now carrying on and which it will continue during the winter, for very much remains to be done.

It has already been reported that Moxico and Venezuela have declined to grant belligerent rights. If this be, the case, the representatives of those respective countries have not been advised of it. It is admitted by those concerned, however, that the insurgents must make more headway before It will be entirely safe for the United States or any other republic to recognize them. The proposition for joint action is based upon the possibility of insurgent victory in engagements which are likely soon to occur.

HAND-BAGGAGE INSPECTION. The Treasury Department Working on a New System.

GEGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The Treasury Department is trying to devise some plan by which the passengers on night-trains over roads running through Canada from one point in the United States to another may be saved the an-noyance of having their hand-baggage inspected by customs officers at the point they re-enter the United States

Until recently passengers for Detroit or other points west, entering Canada at Buffalo, were furnished a label which or other points west, entering Canada at Buffalo, were furnished a label which was attached to their hand-baggage, showing that the owner was a "through passenger," which label passed the baggage attendant at Detroit without examination, but as this plan did not prevent the passenger with the aid of an accomplice from putting dutable articles of great value into his hand-baggage while in Canadian territory and bringing them duty free into the United States, it was recently ordered that all baggage, except such as had been checked, and therefore could not be tampered with en route, be examined at the point it re-entered the United States territory.

By this plan, however, it is very frequently necessary to awaken passengers in the middle of the night to produce their baggage for examination, and it is to avoid this annovance that the treasury officials are now considering other plans. It is quite probable that the result will be the placing of a customs agent on all through night-trains, or the addition of a system of scaling the fastenings of hand-baggage. Some action in regard to the matter will likely be taken very soon.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTA LONDON, Oct. 7.—(By Atlantic Ca-ble.) The Times this morning an-nounces that William Wetmore Story, the American sculptor, died at Vallam-brosa, at the residence of his daugter.

Sketch of His Life.

William Wetmore Story, son of the noted jurist, Joseph Story, was born at Salem, Mass., February 12, 1819. He graduated at Harvard University in 1838, and at its law department in 1840, where he studied under his father's direction. He was admitted to the bar, and devoted his attention largely to preparation of "Reports of Cases Argued and Determined in the Circuit Court of the United States for the First Circuit," which comprised three volumes, published at Boston in 1842-7; "A Treatise on the Law of Contracts Not Under Seal," 1844, and "A Treatise, on the Law of Contracts Not Under Seal," 1844, and "A Treatise on the Law of tontracts Not Under Seal," 1844, and "A Treatise on the Law of tontracts on the Law of Sales of Personal Property," 1847. At the same time he was a frequent contributor of both prose and verse to the "Boston Miscellany" and other periodicals. Story was the poet of his class, and in 1844 delivered the Phi Beta Kappa poem at Harvard on "Nature and Art," in which he indicated the tastes which were to govern his future life. His first volume of poems was published in 1847, and in 1856 he delivered a poem at the dedication of the statue of Beethoven at Boston Music Hall.

In 1848 his fondness for art led to his going to Italy, where he resided most of the time ever since, devoting his attention-chiefly to sculpture. His statue of his father in the chapel of Mt. Auburn Cemetery, of Edward Everett in the Boston public garden, busts of James Russell Lowell, Theodore Parker and Josiah Quincy are well-known examples of his art, and he modelled the bronze statue of George Peabody which was erected in London in 1859, and a replica of which was presented in 1858 to the city of Baltimore through the liberality of Robert Garrett. He was a United States commissioner of fine arts to the World's Fair at Paris in 1879, and has received decorations from France and Italy. Story held a professorship in the Academia Degli Arcadi Santa Cecilla, and received decorations from France and Italy.

Agent Wisdom Instructed to Keep the Indians Safe from All Contamination.

Abe Hullman

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Commissioner Browning of Indian Affairs has taken prompt and decisive steps to prevent the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prizefight in Indian Territory. He has prepared a letter of instructions to Agent Wisdom at Muscogee, I. T., directing him to see that the laws are enforced, and eject forcibly any intruders who enter the Indian country for the purpose of creating disturbance or engaging in anything that may be detrimental to the Indians. The commissioner says that the statutes are ample to prevent a fight. The agent will have at his back not only the Indian police, but all United States troops necessary to eject the fighters. WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Commis-oner Browning of Indian Affairs has a fight. The agent will have at his back not only the Indian police, but all United States troops necessary to eject the fighters.

The following is the letter of instructions sent to Agent D. M. Wilson:

"It is stated in the press dispatches of yesterday and this morning that arrangements are being made, or have been completed, by parties interested, to have a prizefight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons to come off in the Chickasaw Nation, the plan being to pay into the treasury of the Chickasaw Nation the sum of $5000, in consideration of which the two fighters are to be adopted into the Nation with a view of defeating the authority of this department to prevent such fighting.

"It would be, in the opinion of this office, a great detriment to the peace and walfare of the Indians of the Indian Territory to permit a prizefight to take place within that Territory, and you are, therefore, instructed to use every precaution necessary to prevent any one from entering the Chickasaw Nation or any other nation in the Indian Territory and under your charge, for the purpose of having said fight come off in that Territory.

"You will advise the governors of the various nations in the Indian Territory that this office will not permit a prizefight to take place within your jurisdiction, and you will call upon the United States Marshal, and, if necessary, report to this office, and troops will be furnished you to prevent the fight.

"Sec. 2149 of the Revised Statues authorizes and requires me, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, to remove from the limits of any Indian reservation any person found thereon without authority of the law, or whose presence there would, in my opinion, be detrimental to the peace and welfare of the Indians. In the case of the United States va. Crook it was held that the Commissioner of Indian Affairs had authority under the section above cited to remove an Indian from the reservation as weil as a white man.

Commissioner Browning was asked if

The principals and others connected with the fight will be uncermoniously hustled off the Indian lands, on the ground that they are intruders whose presence is undesirable. If they make any complaint about it, the courts will have to determine the rights of the matter, but the probabilities are that the powers of the United States government will be broadly interpreted."

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.,) Oct. 7.—Gov. Altgeld when asked what course he would take in case an attempt was made to pull off the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight on an island in the Illinois River near Henry, Ill., said:

"I do not know where the island is, nor do I know of any prospective prizefight, but if it is on Illinois soil, we will do all in our power to prevent any prizefight taking place there. The enforcement of the law rests primarily with the local authorities, but if it becomes necessary for the State to take a hand in the matter, I will make every effort to prevent the fight."

It has all along been well known that Hot Springs was anxious to have the big fight and the benefits to be derived from it. The press of that city has been outspoken in favor of it. Just what steps have been taken by interested parties to bring the contest to Hot Springs is not known, but it was asserted here today by people who professed to know what they were talking about that the contest will positively take place at the Arkansas resort. This assertion finds many believers, in the face of the fact that prize-fighting fin Arkansas is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not exceeding $2500 for every participant.

NEW YORK, Oot. 7.—The Republicans and the State Democrats both held county conventions and formally placed in nomination the fusion ticket. It is said that the German-American Reform Union will indorse the ticket, because the excise plank of the State Democracy is indorsed. The convention was addressed by Lauterbach and others, who explained the details of the fusion. Some objection was made to the acceptance of the fusion ticket on account of the presence of two Chamber of Commerce men on it. Some of the victims show every symptom of trichinosis, yet the ordinary treatment Tails to eradicate the nary treatment falls to eradicate the disease or allay the fever with which it is accompanied. They appear to be afflicted with promanie, and the anti-dotes administered in cases of general poisoning have not the slightest tendency to check the illness. The fact that most of the victims were not stricken until three weeks after partaking of the wedding feast furnishes another surprise to the physicians.

There are twenty-five cases in Sabula. In the surrounding country there are fifty or sixty more patients. The symptoms are alike in every case. Jackson county is terror-stricken. CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 6.—(By Atlantic Cable, via Sofia, Oct. 7.) Representatives of six powers have sent a collective note to the Turkish governmeasures taken by police authorities to maintain public tranquility in Constan-tinople and the suburbs, and demanding a prompt institution of a rigorous in-quiry into the rioting, bloodshed and esale imprisonment of Armenians here. The Armenians still inside the Patriarchate Church, in which they sought refuge after the rioting of Monday, fired some shots at noon today, and it was feared that another outbreak was imminent. A strong force of troops was immediately sent to the spot. The soldiers blocked all the adjoining streets. This action of the military caused a panic among the finabitants of that quarter, who fied in all directions. The Kurds then entered the workshops among the quays and expelled from them all the Armenians they dould find. Later, it is claimed, the bodies of four Armenians were found. The gendarmes, while making arrests, repeatedly told the prisoners "Call upon England to deliver you." Finally many quarters of Stamboul have been placarded with notices incling the populace against the "infidels." The police tear down these placardes, but are either unable or unwilling to do so before they are widely read and have the effect anticipated upon the Mohammedan population.

VIENNA, Oct. 7.—The Politsche Correspondenz publishes the note which the representatives of the powers at Constantinople have addressed to the Porte, drawing attention to the state of affairs at Stamboul, and advising the Porte to adopt measures for the restoration of order. The note states that the subscribers have their information parily from eye-witnesses and that it shows that private persons who were arrested were beaten and even killed without the peace officers attempting to prevent it; that orderly persons were aftacked and that those who were wounded were taken to the courts, the police stations and to the prisons, and were killed in cold blood. Among the resolutions was one calling the attention of the House of Bishops to the infractions of the canons by lay readers, who, it was claimed, were in some instances, exceeding their powers.

There was a short debate in the House of Deputies this morning over a proposition to put a check on the House of Bishops by requiring that it should act on all matters of legislation coming from the House of Deputies at once or the same would go into effect without the bishops' sanction.

Several amendments were proposed to the resolution, and a sharp contest waged as to the privileges of the bishops and as to whether they should be encouraged to sit with closed doors. Everything was voted down, including the resolution itself, and the bishops will be left without restriction.

Another debate came over taking from the calendar a resolution thanking the bishops for their pastoral letter of 1894. A parliamentary tangle ensued, but finally the entire matter was laid on the table.

The deputies spent the entire afternoon in debate, and the only action on record is that they decided to hereafter call an assistant bishop, "bishop coadjutor." This is in accordance with the desires of the Revision Committee, which recommended the term "bishop coadjutor." This was not done without considerable debate, however, as there was a strong element in favor of the old name, "assistant bishop."

Another aebate ensued over the question of the selection of a term by which the officer at present called presiding bishop shall be known. The revised version calls him a "primus" and has him elected. There was strong opposition to the use of Latin words, and many other names were suggested. Among them were archbishop, president to the use of Bishops this morning appointed a committee to act with the deputies in selecting a place for the next convention, also a committee consisting of Bishops Littlejohn, Perry and Hall, in response to the invitation of the archbishop of Canterbury, to suggest subjects for discussion at the Lambeth Conference to be

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.— On the opening of the eleventh week of the Durrant trial tomorrow, the defense will make a final struggle to break down the testimony of the prosecution, a process which is expected to last three days longer. A few more students will be called to the stand, several additional citizens will testify to Durrant's excellent reputation, and then the defendant himself will be called to the witness-stand.

until the hour when he retired to rest in his father's house. It is understood that the defendant's testimony will be guardedly given for the purpose of shutting off the cross-examination of the District Attorney. Under the law laid down by the Supreme Court of the State a witness c.nnot be cross-examined except upon actual matters brought out upon direct examination. The defense intends to leave no loopholes for the attack of the prosecution. A schedule of time for the close of the trial is as follows: On Thursday, Attorney Deuprey will close the case for the defense; Friday and Monday will be occupied by Dist. Atty. Barnes in rebuttal; Tuesday will be passed in surrebuttal; on Wednesday the opening argument of the prosecution will be made and on Thursday, Friday and Monday the closing efforts of the defense will be made. The next day the District Attorney will close for the prosecution. It is confidently expected that Judge Murphy will charge the jury not later than the morning of Wednesady, October 23.

THE DEFENSE CLOSING UP

THE DEFENSE CLOSING UP. THE DEFENSE CLOSING UP.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—In discussing the Durrant trial Attorney Desprey said the defense intended to point in its most effective evidence at once, and would undoubtedly close on Thursday of this week. He said he did not intend to spring any sensations, but he expected to convince the jury by means of powerful evidence that all the suspicious circumstances developed in the case did not point to Theodore Durrant as the murderer of Blanche Lamont.

Although he did not say so in so many words, he intimated plainly that Rev. J. George Gibson and his handwriting were to receive more attention. "There has been a mistake in regard to Dr. Gibson," said Deuprey. "We have never charged that he, and not Durrant, was the murderer. The general public and a portion of the press, however, have persisted in shouting, 'Deuprey charges Gibson with the murder.' Now, this has all been based upon my opening statement to the jury. The fact of the matter is, however, I simply told the jury that we would point out circumstances which would show that suspicion could be cast upon persons other than Durrant, if suspicious circumstances were to enter into the case. Our intention is simply to demonstrate to the were to enter into the case. Our intention is simply to demonstrate to the jury that evidence of this character must not be taken as proof positive. That is why we intend to show that there is a remarkable similarity between the handwriting of Dr. Gibson and that of the writing of the address upon the wrapper containing Miss Lamont's rings. That is all there is to it. If Dr. Gibson desires to consider that he has been charged with murder, all right and good. We cannot help it. It is not our accusation."

William Greer Harrison's Caustic Remarks on the Subject.

MEQULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7. — William Greer Harrison, the author of "Runnymede," the play which was so unmercifully scored by the New York critics, has returned home and explains why his play was a failure.

"The Bohemian Club of San Francisco," he went on, "represents more refinement, more intelligence and more culture than can be found in the whole city of New York, so far as it is possible for a visitor to see it. Judging from such opportunities as I had of seeing New York men, and I saw them in the best of their clubs, they do not know what is really meant by culture. Novelty and sensation, yes, they understand. I say this not from any hard feeling toward New York, for the cause of their lack of knowledge is readily seen. It arises from their slavish life. They are slaves to their business, and when they go to their theaters they want to see something to make them laugh.

"The most intelligent and refined man from such opportunities as I had of seeing New York men, and I saw them in the best of their clubs, they do not know what is really meant by culture. Novelty and sensation, yes, they understand. I say this not from any hard feeling toward New York, for the cause of their lack of knowledge is readily seen. It arises from their slavish life. They are slaves to their business, and when they go to their theaters they want to see something to make them laugh.

"The most intelligent and refined man I met in New York was 'Ned' Townsend, and next to him Gibson, the art critic. Other-people did not seem to be willing to exhibit the possession of such qualities. The efforts of New Yorkers are turned to making one dollar into two, and they have no time for the cultivation of artistic tastes.

"Runnymede," Mr. Wade himself, was a dead weight on the play because he was expected by his audience to be Frederick Warde as he is in 'Virginius' or in the 'Lion's Mouth.' They were waiting for his graind explosion in 'Runnymede,' and it is not that kind of a play. The critics, well, they misunderstood the play and its purpose, and did not try to understand it. To succeed in New York one must go to New York and become a New Yorker. Actors who had not lestred their lines made them up as they went along, and innumerable lines were pitchforked into the play that never belonged there. It was these interpolated lines that were attacked the acting merit of the play. "Runnymede' is as far ahead of the trash which New Yorkers taxe to as 'As You Like It' is, and the critics ought to have examined into the good qualities of the play rather than scored me for the interpolated phrases."

Sharon-Terry is Dying.

REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—"Mammy" leasance is dying. Life may continue for a week. It may continue for a month, but she is dying. She must be 63 years of age. She came hither in 1854 from Boston and since then has been a watchful friend of many promheen people, so when she passes away she will carry with her secrets that, it known, would bring mortification to many families that have held their heads high in San Francisco. "Mammy" Pleasance first came into ator William Sharon for a divorce.

Mrs. Pleasance heard her story, believed it, believes it yet; took her under her care, gave her clothes and money and stood by the young woman to the end. Day by day, during the long trial, she accompanied the plaintiff to the court and watched over her, and Mrs. Hill listened always respectfully to the "mammy" by her side.

Mrs. Pleasance is the friend of Mrs. Bell, widow of the late Thomas Bell, and she resides with her in the large house on Octavia street, corner of Bush. The old nurse has virtually managed the household for years and when Thomas Bell was alive, "Mammy" Pleasance used to drive downtown and go through the markets every week day. If the old-fashloned wagon with a top to it and drawn by two well-groomed bays did not leave the Bell mansion by 11 o'clock in the morning something unusual was known by the neighbors to have happened.

Since Thomas Bell's death, "Mammy" Pleasance has held the purse-strings and has administered the household affairs herself. The rearing of the children has been entrusted to her, and visitors to the house say the children love her dearly. In her youth Mrs. Pleasance was a Methodist, but years ago she became a Roman Catholic and today is a devout communicant of that church. It is in that faith that she has reared the children.

There was considerable scandal at the time Thomas Bell died, and the story was told that the children were not his; that they were foundlings whom Mrs. Pleasance had obtained, and, with Mrs. Bell, had palmed off on the aged capitalist as his own. The courts decided that there was no truth in the story, and Mrs. Pleasance has always indignantly defined the charge. The scandal was long since buried in oblivion, and only the fact that Mrs. Pleasance is a very wealthy woman. Her riches are estimated at several hundreds of thousands of dollars, and she employs an agent to collect the rents from her numerous houses and look after her investments, always under her gown augervision, however. She has bought real estate,

When the fishermen returned they declared the boat had been upset by a singular beast, which had reached up out of the sea and literally tipped the boat over. They described the creature, and everybody laughed at them. The description was such a one as Capt. Erickson of the Elvins gives of the mysterious thing that he caught on the ship's deck. The one brought down on the Elvina, however, was undoubtedly young of its sind, for it measures only a foot, or even less than that, across.

Clunie of San Francisco made an aggressive fight for the depositors, who are much dissatisfied with the conduct of the bank officials and who have made two unsuccessful attempts before this to have a new board of directors put in. The old directors have hereofore persistently refused to give the depositors any satisfaction or any information. The commissioners adopted a resolution declarfaction or any information. The commissioners adopted a resolution declaring the bank insoftwent, and taking possession of the bank's affairs.

This resolution practically stops all business until the courts decide whether the old directors are guilty of fraud, criminal carelessness or negligence. That matter will be determined by suit to be brought by the Abtorney-General to oust the said directors. The bank commissioners expected to leave here on the south-bound train this afternoon, but shortly after noon were subpoensed to appear before the grand jury tomorrow morning to testify in some matters being investigated by the jury in connection with the Merced Bank.

The general opinion prevails that some criminal actions will be brought against the bank officials as a result of the investigation now being made.

OPPOSING THE DEAL.

SALT LAKE (Utah,) Oct. 7.—A special to the Tribune from Helena, Mont., says that Judge Knowles of the United says that Judge Knowles of the United States Court confirmed the appointment of Andrew F. Burleigh as receiver of the Northern Pacific and appointed two others as receivers for the Montana district. They are Edwin L. Bonner of Missoula and Capt. J. H. Mills of Deer Lodge. The former is a well-known merchant in this city and the latter is the commissioner of the Bureau of Labor, Agriculture and Industry of Montana in this city. The receiver's bond was fixed at $100,000.

The attorneys spent five hours in arguing the matter before the Judge, and when Judge Cullen arose to make his second argument the Judge interrupted him by saying: "Something ought to be done in this matter at once. As to the resignation of the receivers, I wish to say but little. I order their removal and will look into their accounts in the future." The Judge then proceeded to appoint the new receivers.

TRACKLAYING BY NIGHT. STOCKTON, Cal., Oct. 7.-Tracklay ing by night is a novelty on the Valley road. The citizens of Stockton are being treated to such a spectacle tonight. A large force of men is at work putting down rails on that portion of Scott's avenue that lies in front of the Stockton warehouse, of which M. P. Stein is the owner. Stein had threatened that the road should never be built there, as it interfered with his warehouse business, and that he would enjoin the company if it attempted to do the work. Today being a legal holiday, when no injunction papers could be obtained, the work of constructing this piece of the road was commenced, and by tomorrow morning it will be finished.

INTERVIEW WITH IVES.

ST. PAUL (Minn.,) Oct. 7.—Brayton Ives, president of the Northern Pacific, passed through here today. Ives claims that in the end all the occurrences of the past few months will prove beneficial to the Northern Pacific, because of the wide advertising of the road, its resources and the territory.

"I think," said he, "that the present condition is a material disadvantage to the company, but it has its mitigating circumstances. In the present case there will have to be a conference of interests, so that an amicable agreement may be reached."

Ives added that there might be a way out of the difficulty through the confirmation of Burleigh by Judge Hanford, giving Receiver Burleigh jurisdiction over the entire line, with the exception of the Duluth and Ashland line, which would be under the control of McHenry and Bigelow.

DENVER, Oct. 7.—A special to the News from Cheyenne, Wyo., says that the military authorities at Fort Russell discredit the report of the killing in Jackson's Hole of Capt. Smith and two comrades by Bannock Indians. The Federal authorities here place no reliance on the report. Lieut. This evening Adjt.-Gen. Stitzer of the State militia received a dispatch from Hon. man was killed and another fatally wounded here this morning in a riot among boatmen over the question of loading at Scribner dock. About one hundred and fifty men were involved in the riot. Capt. Phillips, owner of the boats John Graft and May, was shot in the head and died soon afterward. Phillips's son was struck on the head with a club. It is believed that the skull was fractured.

Capt. Phillips brought his boats down from Buffalo two days ago and sought to load out of turn. The boatmen objected and gathered early today at the dock to prevent him. Tonawands boatmen say that Phillips began the shooting. However that may be, he was the first to fall. His son then cut the lines and the boats then drifted down stream out of the range of pistols. While cutting the lines, young Phillips was assaulted. The shooting brought the police to the docks, but the rioters had dispersed. Eleven arrests have been made for participating in the riots. been made for participating in the riots,

WAR ON BUTTERINE. Merchants Will Hereafter Sell the Merchants Will Hereafter Sell the Stuff on Its Merits.

Health Officer Steddom has for some time had his eye on certain provision dealers who sell the stuff called "butterine" to guileless purchasers who fancy that they are receiving genuine butter for their money. The State law requires that butterine, oleomargarine, or any adulterated substance of this kind shall not be sold without being labeled as such. The Health Officer asserts that this law is not complied with by local dealers, and he intends to rigidly enforce the legislative enactment bearing upon the subject.

In most of the Eastern States a similar law prevails, and many expedients are resorted to by which the law may be evaded. Dealers have been known to place the sign upside down before the butterine exposed for sale, and thus while complying with the letter of the law, disobey the spirit of the same. The inspectors of the health department in this city will be instructed to keep a careful lookout for any and all cases of butterine being sold without having the proper label attached to it.

Hotel Men Will Help La Fiesta.

The hotel men of Los Angeles held a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce building to devise means for aiding systematically La Fiesta of 1896, yesterday evening. There were present A. C. Bilicke of the Hollenbeck Hotel, Mr. Potter of the Westminster, Mr. Hart of the Natick, Mr. Pasco of the Lincoln, Mr. Smith of the California, Mr. Philbrook of the Corfu, Mr. Condon of the Grand Pacific and others. On motion of Mr. Potter it was decided to appoint a committee of five to make a thorough canvass of the proprietors of the hotels, lodging-houses and restaurants of Los Angeles and to solicit from each, in proportion to his financial ability, his part of the money to be contributed to the financial support of the great show. Hotel Men Will Help La Flesta.

Left for the North. William Martin Aiken, Supervising Architect of the United States Treasury Department, who came to this city from the East a few days ago, left for San Francisco last evening. After returning from San Diego he spent yesterday morning at Pasadena, and left the city on last night's overland. He will visit government buildings at various places north along the coast.

The Effort of Superintendent Fosha; tion's Meeting Next Year-Let ters Received.

There is no let-up in the effort that is being made by Superintendent of Schools Foshay and others, to secure the National Educational Association meeting for this city next year. Super-intendent Foebay yesterday tel-graphed to President Dougherty of the Executive Committee, asking the date upon which the committee will meet to decide upon the location for the meet-ing. He received an answer in the afternoon saying that the committee is to meet in Chicago at the Auditorium to meet in Cuicago at the Auditorium Hotel October 19 at 10 a.m. Superintendent Foshay will arrange to have a number of Eastern educators, who favor the claim of Los Angeles for the meeting, present at the session of the Executive Committee, to exert their influence and bring a strong pressure to bear on the committee in behalf of Los Angeles

The local committee is assured by Eastern railroad authorities that the rate of one fare or less to the meeting will be forthcoming. With this question settled, much will have been accomplished toward securing the association's meeting for this city.

Superintendent Foshay continues to receive letters from the directors of the association, in answer to the circular mailed to each director, in which an expression of opinion was asked for from each director addressed. The letters received are interesting in that they indicate the pulse of the Eastern men in regard to the location of the meeting. Extracts from a number will serve to show the present status of the question. Charles R. Skinner, State Superintendent, New York: "I have yours of the 10th inst., inclosing a statement in regard to the selection of Los Angeles as the place for holding the next meeting of the National Educational Association. While I would be delighted personally to visit your beautiful city. I do not think it would be becoming in me to take any part in the action of the Executive Committee. We made a grand meeting at Denver, and if a meeting should be held at Los Angeles we would not want to make it less successful than the meeting of 1895. I hope to meet President Dougherty within a few weeks, and I shall improve the opportunity to talk matters over with him.. It would make little difference with my own plans, and it would certainly be very delightful to visit California, but it is not fair for me to consult my own wishes. The Inclosure which you send certainly presents a fornia, but it is not fair for me to con-sult my own wishes. The inclosure which you send certainly presents a most favorable showing for your city. H. C. Pritchett, principal Sam Houston Normal Institute, Huntsville, Tex.: "I will gladly vote for Los Angeles and do what I can to secure the National Educational Association for that city, provided I can have assurance that the Southern Pacific, Railroad will give proper rates. the Southern States and especially from this part of Texas, will naturally take the Southern Pacific route. Two years ago I carried a large party of teachers to Asbury Park, and last year to Denver. I am sure I can secure a large number for Los Angeles provided the proper rates are obtained."

C. E. Hodgin, Superintendent of Schools, Albuquerque, N. M.: Your letter of recent date regarding the N.E.A. meeting is received. I have written to President Dougherty and Secretary Shepard, at some length, expressing my opinion in favor of Los Angeles as the best place for the meeting next year. I stand by my vote at Denver. Unless considerable pressure is brought to bear upon the committee, it will probably select an Eastern point, but we will hope that the members may be led to see the advantages of Los Angeles."

led to see the advantages of Los Angeles.

Theo B. Comstock, ex-president Arizona University: "Your letter of September 6, from local committee, interested in securing the meeting of N.E.A. at Los Angeles, has been received. I have taken pleasure in sending on to Messrs. Dougherty and Shepard letters strongly urging a decision in favor of Los Angeles. Hoping you may be successful in getting the meeting in your lovely city, I am, etc."

David K. Goss, Superintendent of Schools, Indianapolis, Ind.: "I am in receipt of a letter from the various educational people of California who have invited the N.E.A. to hold its convention in Los Angeles in '96, urging me to express myself concerning the action of the Executive Committee in receipt of the definite via configure to the definite via configure via confi action of the Executive Committee in regard to the definite place of meeting As a director I do not wish to do any-thing that would in any way embarass the Executive Committee in doing the best thing for the interests of the N.E.A. the Executive Committee in doing the best thing for the interests of the N.E.A. I think the committee has no option if Los Angeles can be reached, as your committee avers, at less than one fare railroad, and rate of best hotels is not greater than 33. You will remember I raised the question whether the action of the board of directors was binding upon the Executive Committee, at the meeting in Denver, and it was affirmed by many and denied by none, that the Executive Committee could not, without abundant good reason, disregard the choice of the directors. I am quite willing to leave it at that, and I am sure that this committee would not endanger itself or the reputation of the N.E.A. by doing willful or doubtful things." The action of the board of directors, referred to, was a ballot cast in favor of Los Angeles as the place for the association's meeting in 1896.

The following resolution was adopted by the State Board of Education, at a meeting held in Sacramento, August 16, 1895:

Telegraph, telephone and lighting com-panies have suffered so much annoy-ance that patience has ceased to be a virtue, and both street-raliroad com-panies have battled and protested. in vain against the cutting of their wires and the blocking of their tracks by the

of men armed with crowbars and axes.

Word was brought in to the superintendent of the Traction Company one night that the lines were about to be cut by the house-movers. Linemen were at once sent to the place, with instructions to cut the wires, allow the house to pass through and then replace the line before the cars should start in the morning. When the men arrived at the scene of action, they found the the line before the cars should start in the morning. When the men arrived at the scene of action, they found the house-movers inclined to take matters into their own hands, and preparing to cut the wires and throw them down, instead of raising them to allow the house to pass underneath. The linemen urged their orders from the company, but three men with only the implements for their work were no match for sixteen with crowbars and pickaxes, especially as the latter were disposed to enforce their point with these powerful persuaders, and the wires were cut and thrown down for blocks at a stretch.

cut and thrown down for blocks at a stretch.

This has been the experience of both street-railroad companies, and now active measures are to be taken to procure redress. Hitherto, the political "pull" which the contractor is said to possess has held him scot-free, but his encroachments have passed all bounds, and a general combination of the companies is likely to be formed for the protection of the interests of all who own overhead wires of any description.

Mrs. M. Burton Williamson read an interesting paper on the history of the town of University and the founding of the college. The design of founding a university in Los Angeles had its origin in 1868. Judge Widney had induced Don Abel Stearns to consider the project of founding a college on Laguna ranch. Don Abel died before the scheme was carried out. Numerous locations were offered. West Los Angeles was selected. Eighty-eight lots and forty acres of land were donated in 1879. The first college building was erected in 1880. The new college building was built in 1887. The first lots were sold at $200. They reached $1500 in 1887, but are not so high now.

Mr. Given was invited by resolution to give an account of his trip to California from Santa Fe in 1841.

Miss Kelso's report of her receipts and expenditures of the mission preservation fund, filed at the last meeting, was discussed. The report showed that $370 had been collected. Of this, $138 had been expended in photographs, water colors, sildes and views. Only $45 worth of these were sold. Typewriting, services, expert charges and sundries had consumed the balance of the receipts, except $33, which Miss Kelso states she will keep until further augmented, when it will be used for preserving the mission ruins.

Death of Rev. Antonio Diaz Rev. Antonio Diaz, well known as an evangelist among the Spanish-speaking people in Southern California, died yesterday morning at San Gabriel, where he had lately made his home. The funeral services will be held today at 3 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church at that place. Mr. Diaz was a native of Mexico and had an eventful life. He was among the first converts made by Protestant missionaries in that country. Owing to persecution he was compelled to fice to this country, nearly twenty years ago. sickness. Most all irritable women are sick women. Most all melancholy, listless, languid women are sick women. Every woman who will take the trouble to notice, will find that at certain fixed periods she is nervous, cross, irritable and despondent. Any irregularity makes the conditions worse. Even a well woman is less amiable than usual at these times. What can be expected from a sick woman?

When every movement is a dreary drag, when the nerves are all on edge in sympathy with the particular ones affected—when it seems that death were very much preferable to living—what can a woman do for her children then?

It is every woman's duty to be well and healthy. There is no reason why she should be otherwise if only she will take proper care of herself and take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when she needs it.

This celebrated remedy has been used in the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., of which Dr. Pierce is Chief Consulting Physician and specialist, for over 30 years. Thousands of women have been cured by it and hundreds have written grateful letters.

Some of these letters are embodied in a 168 page book, called "Woman and Her Diseases," which will be sent sealed in a plain envelope on receipt of ten cents (stamps), by WORLD's DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

WHEN DEBS GETS OUT OF JAIL,

The labor organizations of Chicago are evidently becoming aware, at last The proposition to give him a hig re-ception upon his release from jail does excite unbounded enthusiasm in the trades-union camp. The discovery that Debs proposes, upon his release, to enter upon an active war agains trades-unions and will endeavor to establish a political "labor" organization, is not calculated to increase

It remains to be seen how far these men will throw off the yoke of Debsism, and repudiate the disastrous and dangerous leadership of Debs. If they again follow his leadership, they will again be undone. For Debs is a traitor to the cause of labor, a false and incompetent leader, a charlatan and selfseeker. Such labor organizations and individuals as join in the movement to do honor to this jail-bird of soiled plumage will disgrace themselves by so doing.

As mentioned in The Times yesterday, persons who have paid taxes on personal property for the current fiscal year are now required to pay an additional sum, represented by the difference between $1.20 and $1.45 per $100. The $1.20 rate, upon which the tax for this year was based, was the rate for the fiscal year ended July 1, 1895, as the law which governs the matter provides that the Assessor, in collecting taxes, shall be governed by the rate for the preceding year. In August, after these taxes had been levied and collected at the $1.20 rate (for th current fiscal year,) the Council fixed the rate at $1.45 per $100, and taxpayers are now required to pay the difference.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

BURBANK THEATER: The third season at this popular playhouse opened last night in a most brilliant way. The theater has been embellished until it is aneater has been empeliased until it is all a-glitter with light, redolent of fresh paint, clean, sweet and dainty from the entrance to the lobby to the garnish curtain which swings across the proscenium. To be sure, there is rather too much freshness of paint on the chairs in the boxes, but that will wear off in its own good time and so will it, perhaps, from some of the gowns which took on streaks of pallor last evening to the discomfiture of their fair wearers. But the brilliancy of the opening was not confined to the decorations. It was strongly in evidence in the big audience, which was made up of the city's beauty and fashion and especially marked in the company which made its appearance for the first time, and met with a reception as cordial as it was deserved. The Frawley Company is far and away superfortom any of the loudly-heralded organizations which have come to us in seasons past and played to aristocratic prices. It is strong, well balanced and in some instances superb, and one need not pose as a prophet to be able to declare that it will win the unanimous favor of local theater-goers. No such coterie of artists has previously appeared on the Burbank stage, and to Manager Cooper for his enterprise in securing their engagement congratulations are in order in all sincerity. The play last evening was William H. Crane's notable and characteristic American comedy, "The Senator," presented by a cast made up as follows: Senator Hamibal Rivers. Medyn Arbuckle Alexander Armstrong, Secretary of State... "Wilson Enos Count Earnest von Strahl, Austrian Diplomat. Medyn Arbuckle Alexander Armstrong, Secretary Chinese legation. H. D. Of the players one may say but little other than in the most praiseful way. There is a proneness to hasty speech in nearly every member of the company, which makes it extremely difficult to which makes it extremely difficult to follow the line of the play in a house whose acoustics are not of the best, and there is a sort of slam-bang movement in the action which reminds one of life in Chicago, but these are only minor blemishes; still, some element of repose would certainly add to the strength of the production.

Mr. Frawley scored a great hit as the laconic lleutenant—a part which he has developed by his talent from a merely minor one into one that stands out full of strength and character. His abrupt sentences and eloquent pauses stamp him as an actor of decided originality and keen intelligence, and his playing last night was one of the most pleasing features of the performance. Mr. Arbuckle's Senator was capitally done. While it may be conceded that he lacks the native humor with which Mr. Crane While it may be conceded that he lacks the native humor with which Mr. Crane endowed the role, his conception of it is rich with merit and left little to be desired. Hope Ross is one of the brightest ingenues seen here for many seasons. She has all the witchery of womanliness, and airy grace, a sweetness of speech and an archness of manner that made her playing altogether a delight. Miss Bates, as the bewitching widow, young, gay and susceptible to masculine charms no end, was extremely clever. She was fittingly cast and made an extremely strong impression. Miss Rowan was a most agreeable and pleasing Mabel Denman. She has little of moment to do in the part, but that little she does with grace and vital force. Miss McAllister was attractive as Mrs. Schuyler. Mr. King is a fine actor of old-man parts, and did excellently in the role of Silas Denman, Mr. Blakemore's Chinese role was a work of art, both in make-up and otherwise. Mr. Leslie made an engaging figure as the Senator's secretary, and Mr. Osbourne, though rather unhappily cast, did well as the Austrian diplomat. Mr. Bosworth, as a small villain, was very acceptable, and Frank C. Thompson made the most of the small part of Erastus, the ebony-hued serving man. The whole performance was breezy and engaging, and a succession of big houses may be depended upon for, the remainder of the week. manliness, and airy grace, a sweetness of speech and an archness of manner place young men, personated by Smith O'Brien and Hugh J. Emmett. A professed Italian Count, with the regulation number of American wives, and the macaroni manners of his class, served as a foil for the blunt speeches of the Widow O'Brien. Harry Wright assumed the part of the Count. As the music teacher of the O'Brien girls, the Count was able for a time to make things interesting for both the girls and their widowed mother. The remaining characters in the skit, so far as their connection with the comedy is concerned do little more than serve as a background for the work of Comedian Leary. The specialties are cleverly worked in, and are, with but few exceptions, entirely new to this house. Smith O'Brien sings a composition, the words and music of which are his own—"Molly. That's All." This is said to have been the first rendering of the songby O'Brien. Hugh Emmett convulsed the audience with his imitation on the violin of various characters that infest the precincts of the social world. A new dance by W. L. Mitchell, a repetition of the musical act of Weston and Herbert, and the Russian dance of the Fabianu troupe complete the specialties of the "second-week people." Of the new performers, Hines and Remington, billed as sketch artists, scored the most distinct success of the evening. Miss Remington, as the Bowery Girl, and W. E. Hines, as her would-be lover, secured round after round of applause for their act. Miss Remington's song, "He's All Right When He Gets His Sunday Money," is the breezlest thing that the Orpheum has known for as much as some time. Her partner, W. E. Hines, is blessed with the "Chimmie Fadden" vocabulary and sings a serenade song, "Kitty," that is the composition of Miss Remington, Mechan and Raymond are two new specialty people, who do a turn that is rather commonplace, with the exception of the suggestiveness in certain lines of Miss Raymond's songs, which tickle the gallery immensely, but which could be improved by an application of some ordinary disinfectant. The bill runs all week. PITH OF THE COAST PRESS. (Whittler Register:) We learn that the proprietors of the Puente oil wells near Whittler have been experimenting on refining their product. Should the present promising prospect in the matter be realized a refinery will be put in with a view of producing oil for the general market.

(Fresno Republican:) The acquisition of the Los Angeles oil fields by the Standard Oil Company gives the Republican a rare opportunity to say: We told you so. There is a great deal to be said on both sides of the proposition, but in view of the fact that it will only be a short time, comparatively, until a slice of territory, with Los Angeles in the center thereof, is made a city and county, as San Francisco now is, the people have spoken wisely.

(San Francisco Liquor, Dealers' Journal:) Down in Los Angeles, where they are trying to keep the town "dry" on Sunday, a couple of reporters started out to see what success they would have in obtaining drinks. The experiences they encountered in the quest were then to be written up for the paper they represented. Well, those reporters must have been popular boys, for rumor has it that they got a good stiff drink at each of the first nine places visited. And right there the story stops. The presumption is that at the end of the ninth round the quill-drivers were too full for further investigation.

(National City Record:) The expected large influex of tourists this winter in Southern California should arouse our people to the necessity of making their yards and gardens as attractive as love and labor can make them. Fluke Case Argued.

An extra session was held yesterday by Judge Smith, in spite of the legal holiday, in order that the argument might be heard in the case of Harry Fluke, the Pasadena man charged with violating the liquor ordinance. Fluke refused to pay his fine, and petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus. The matter was taken under advisement by the court.

ON THE CARPET. arges Preferred Against Police

A subscriber of The Times writes from Boyle Heights that one day last week L. C. Palmer, a citizen of the Heights, was most brutally and inhumanely handled by Police Officer Arguello. The trouble occurred over a road-scraper, which Mr. Palmer believed belonged to him, and which was being used by the Arguello brothers on Fourth street. Mr. Palmer, who is at present engaged in the grading of St. Louis street, had several scrapers in an adjoining lot and he, seeing the Arguellos at work with one like his, walked over to the place to ascertain whether or not it belonged to him. He had no sooner reached the place and asked if they had borrowed his scraper than they began to abuse him and inform him that if he did not leave the street he would be arrested. Palmer asked by what authority he would be arrested, and was informed that it was none of his business; they had enough authority to "run him in."

"Officer Arguello," the correspondent says, "then began to handle Mr. Palmer in a most brutal manner, and, in the presence of witnesses, threw him to the ground several times and would have injured the gentleman for life had it not been for J. T. Brock, the blacksmith of the Heights who happened near the place and demanded of the man to loose his hold on Palmer. Arguello then insulted Brock, and, after some discussion, informed him that he was an officer and that he (Brock) was under arrest. Brock then demanded to see his star, but the officer did not, and would not show the same. Arguello then telephoned for the patrol wagon, but when the other officers arrived, they saw the mistake that Arguello had made and also the brutal manner in which he had treated Palmer and they in a very gentlemanly manner informed Palmer that he might go to town otherwise than in the patrol wagon.

"There are twenty or more witnesses who stand willing to appear before a court of justice or the Police Commission, and it was his intent yesterday to file charges with that body against Officer Arguello at help me the decided to carry the case be Arguello denies emphatically that he used undue violence or exceeded his authority. He claims that he showed his star, and says Palmer and Brock knew quite well that he was an officer. Mr. Arguello thinks the charges against him are made in a spirit of revenge, simply because he had the courage to perform his duty as he understood ft.

A Fresno Opinion.

(Fresno Republican:) Capitalists of Los Angeles, with an enterprise which is characteristic of the people of that city, have determined to construct a pipe line from the oil wells to San Pedro, whence the oil can be transported to San Francisco by water, thus avoiding the exorbitant rates of the Southern Pacific. The plan will result in a considerable reduction of the cost at which Los Angeles oil, which is of a superior quality, can be laid down in San Francisco, and on its face it promises to be of value to the citizens of the metropolis and the bay and river towns.

metropolis and the bay and river towns.

But it may be feared that the face promise cannot be taken at its apparent value. A reduction of the cost at which oil can be laid down in San Francisco will be made, but the people probably will not be given any part of the value of this reduction for a great length of time.

This opinion is based on some observation of the methods of the Standard Oil Company. That great monopoly does not permit competition in its field, which is the continent. It has unifmdoes not permit competition in its field, which is the continent. It has unlimited capital at its command, and it uses it to crush or buy out its competitors. When the Los Angeles pipe line is fairly in operation the Standard will either place a price on oil at the bay which cannot he long met by its less wealthy opponent, or it will buy the Los Angeles wells and pipes. Having done this, the price of oil in San Francisco will take a sudden bound upward.

The Arizona Trade.

The Arisona Trade.

(Phoenix Republican:) Evidently the business men of San Francisco and Los Angeles think that the Arizona trade is valuable, or they would not spend the money that they do for newspaper space in attempting to secure it. Not only do these enterprising men spend money for space in the papers of their own cities, but they are equally liberal in contracts with other newspapers published in communities tribitary to them.

During the month of September the Republican closed contracts aggregating over $1000 with San Francisco and Los Angeles business men, and there is scarcely a mail that does not bring orders for more advertising from these cities.

San Francisco and Los Angeles look upon Arizona as part of their territory, and it is a good indication of the growing importance of Arizona to note that the business men of these cities are so anxious to secure the Arizona trade. WRITE HER EVERY DAY.

ANOTHER TRIAL. ANOTHER TRIAL.

Tae Annexationists Will Not Give Up the Battle.

Instead of contesting the recent annexation election, the men who were most actively interested in the proposition will seek to have another elecmost actively interested in the proposition will seek to have another election on the same issue, as was announced in this paper Sunday morning. It is proposed to change the boundaries of the district sought to be annexed, leaving out University, which suburb gave such a decided majority against annexation, and reducing the size of the remaining territory. Much objection was made before the recent election to annexing so much vacant land, and the boundaries which it is now proposed to make will obviate this difficulty. Instead of demanding a recount before the City Council today, the Committee of One Hundred will meet next Saturday evening in the Chamber of Commerce Hall, there to formulate the line of action which it is proposed to take. There is but little question that if University is left out, and the boundary lines are changed, another election would result in a victory for the annexation people. The Committee of One Hundred will authorize the effort to secure signatures to a petition for another election, and if this is accomplished, the City Council will be obliged to order that such an election be held.

A prominent resident of Harper tract said last evening that he and all his neighbors of that section appreciated the courtesy of the Chief of Police and the Fire Chief for the protection hitherto accorded them by the city departments, and were grateful for them. They are willing and anxious to come into the city and have an opportunity to help share the expense of providing such protection—a fact they will demonstrate when an election occurs in which their votes will count.

THEIR ODD WEDDINGS.

How Marriages Are Conducted in Russia and Denmark.

Russia and Denmark.

In Russia marriages are brought about by means of a woman mediator, known as the "Svakha," says Florence Wilson in Godey's Magazine. As soon as a choice is made the "Svakha," clothed in her best, goes to the house of the girl, and entering with as much dignity as possible salutes the ikons and speaks of things seemingly having no reference to the prospective marriage. She says, for instance:
"A white dove has escaped today from the house. Is it possible that it has fied to you?"

Upon the answer received to this question depends whether she continues or not. If a favorable one is given she speaks directly to the point and goes home, and the suitor then, taking courage, visits the girl himself. The money and objects of various kinds which the groom intends to present to the parents of the bride form the subject of long discussions between the parents and the groom.

A few days before the wedding the discussions between the the groom.

A few days before the wedding the bride is taken to bathe by her friends and companions. The soap used at the time is a present from the bridgroom.

The thing spongs, through which rib bons are passed, is carried on a long pole in front of the bridd, the young women singing as the procession advances. The platform of the bathing-house is sprinkled with beer, and it depends upon the odor from the beer whether the groom is to be a henpecked husband or not.

As soon as the bridds procession enters the church on the day of the wedding the bride and groom start down the asise on a mad race. There is a tradition that whichever places the foot first on the cloth in front of the sitar is to be master of the house. At the wedding dinner, when the tea is passed around, each guest tasting it declares that it is bitter, and this is a signal for the newly-wedded couple to embrace each other. In some parts of Russia the young wife is obliged to others.

the wedding dinner, when the sea is passed around, each guest tasting it declares that it is bitter, and this is a signal for the newly-wedded couple to embrace each other. In some parts of Russia the young wife is obliged to pull off her husband's boots in the presence of the guests as proof that he is master. A whip purposely placed there falls from the boot, and the husband strikes the wife with it three times. After this greeting he kisses her.

Danish weddings vary according to the means of the bride, but to her parents, consisting generally of contributions to the feast. Some contribute are sent, not to the bride, but to her parents, consisting generally of contributions to the feast. Some contribute butter, other eggs, chickens, a lamb, joints of beef, and in fact anything catable. For months before the bride and her mother and sisters have been hard at work at the loom, spinning and weaving all the linens for the person as well as for the house, which store, together with a couple of young horses, a couple of cows and a pair of sheep, invariably form a part of her marriage portion. At 11 o'clock on the morning of the wedding, all the guests meet at the house of the bride, driving up in carts; and when ready the long procession starts for the church, headed by two outriders, who are the best men. Next follows a cart containing a band of three or four brass instruments and the village fiddler. A cart follows containing the bride sitting alone, and behind her comes the bridegroom, also alone, driven by a Karle. He sits in the middle of his vehicle in all the respiendent glory of a new, tall hat and a vast cloak with many capes, worn even in summer time. Near the church children strew flowers. Returning from the church the bride and groom sit together, the band preceding. The parents remain at home during the ceremony.

(New York Times.) Many physicians, according to a lecturer on dietetics, are ordering thin bread and butter for delicate patients, especially those suffering from dyspepsia, consumption, and annemia, or any who need to take on flesh. This thin bread and butter insensibly induces persons to eat much more butter than they have any idea of. It is extraordinary, says the lecturer, how short a way a pat of fresh butter will go if spread on a number of this slices of bread. This is one advantage, and a great one, in the feeding of invalids, for they are thereby provided with an excellent form of the fat which is so essential for their nutrition, in a way that lures them to take it without rebellion. But the thin bread and butter has another advantage equally greatit is very digestible and easily assimilated. Fresh butter made from cream is very much more digestible when spread upon thin slices of bread than the same amount of cream eaten as cream, per se, would be.

The Japs are becoming remarkably successful pirates when it comes to adopting American patents. It 's said they now have in use many scales of the Fairbanks pattern, and presses precisely like the latest Hoe, all made in Japan, together with countless other inventions, all protected in this country. Like all Orientals, they have a marvelous genius for imitating and they are airing their genius to the limit. This powerful proof of their civilization is likely to go a long way toward compelling their recognition as a civilized power. It they are to be treated as a semi-civilized people these Japs have little inducement for conforming to international regulations regarding patents.

As a measure of economy to the county, if for nothing else, every en-couragement should be given to this new departure, which has already proved fiself such a success.

The hobo fraternity is getting numerous hereabouts since the chill autumn winds have begun blowing over the stubble in less genial climes. The po-lice, however, gather in the wanderers as fast as they arrive, keep them long enough to observe their characteristics and discover if they are wanted for any crimes, then send them out of town, with the warning not to town, with the warning not to return again on penalty of being vagged.

The Health Department now propos to enforce the law designed to prevent deception in the sale of imitation but-ter for the real article. It is a known fact that consignments of carloads of fact that consignments of carloads of butterine come into Los Angeles every little while from the Eastern "bull but-ter" factories, but no one ever hears of any of it being sold. This indicates either that all that stuff is still stored away hereabout or that it has been sold and consumed as butter.

The reason why Pico Heights refused to annex is perhaps explained by the fact that Lord and Lady Sholto Douglass have recently taken up (neir residence in that aristocratic suburb. One community of Southern California ranches imported 2300 tons of potatoes in nine months. "Why didn't these ranchers raise their own potatoes?" is a pertinent question. One of the needs of California ranchers is that they raise their own produce in additional productions. they raise their own produce in addi-tion to their crops of lemons or oranges or whatever their specialty may be. Successful ranchers do this in many sections. They raise their living crop profits accrue.

After months of steady annoyance, patience has ceased to be a virtue with the owners of the network of wires in the streets of this city, and it is said that vigorous measures will soon be taken to put a stop to the encroachments of the house-movers upon the overhead construction of the street-railways, telegraph, telephone and lighting companies. This is a move in the right direction, and redress for these long-continued annoyances should these long-continued annoyances sho be granted by the City Council.

The loose, easy-going and village-like manner in which teams are left stand-ing by the curb, to the annovance and ing by the curb, to the annoyance and sometimes danger of pedestrians, was recently referred to by The Times. A few days ago the horses attached to two large furniture wagons which had been left unhitched on Broadway started to run away, and were not caught until they had wrecked a buggy, A short distance down the street some men were engaged in felling a big pepper tree without giving any warning to passers-by. The tree fell with a crash, and missed two women in a buggy by a few feet. Los Angeles is getting beyond the stage of villages, getting beyond the stage of villages, which pass ordinances to prevent hogs from roaming in the public streets. There is a little too much "go-as-you-please" for a city of this size.

OUT OF OF DEATH'S JAWS

for Life, and After Three Days and Nights Without Food or Water, in Terride Heat, Hab at Last Renched Home.

The story of the loss of the steamer Colima off Manzanillo, Mexico, on Monday, May 27 last, has been told in many dispatches. Yet the narrative of one who survived the wreck and has returned to his home in Rediands, is so thrilling as to warrant a repetition.

Two young men living in Rediands were companions on a voyage to New York, and were upon the Colima on the fateful day. Fate decreed that W. H. Alder, the older of the young men, should perish with the 180 others who found a watery grave, while W. H. Bryan, who stood by his side at the time of the wreck, should return to his home, which he reached Monday evening last, after a most memorable voyage.

Mr. Bryan was seen by a representative of The Times, to whom he related his story as follows:

"We left San Francisco on May 18, and had a pleasant voyage until we reached Manzanillo. About 7 o'clock on May 27, off Manzanillo, we were struck by a heavy storm, the worst known in that sea for twenty years. At first there was rain and wind, with a heavy sea, indicating that the storm was raging more severely to the south. We proceeded on our way, every moment encountering heavier winds, with which there was no cessation.

"As the storm grew in severity the people began to grow apprehensive of the outcome, yet there was no great demonstration. While a few people prayed for a cessation of the storm, the great majority of the passengers were silient and overpowered by the awful scene about them, and with blanched faces set their teeth and awaited the end.

"The heavy deckload of lumber, oil and cattle made the ship unmanages."

scene about them, and with bianched faces set their teeth and awaited the end.

"The heavy deckload of lumber, oil and cattle made the ship unmanageable. The wind struck the boat from the southeast, forcing its starboard side closer and closer to the water line, the stern driven deep, while the bow pointed to the heavens. The great waves continued to wash higher until they were an immense, irresistable tempest of water, dashing furiously against the vessel and tossing it about as though it were a chip.
"Most of the passengers sought the hurricane deck, and there beheld the awful fury of the elements. Alder and myself stood side by side, clinging with other passengers to the boat. We saw wave after wave wash over the vessel, and then beheld a monstrous rush, which crushed the cabins on the main deck. In the awful wreck we beheld a number of women and children carried helplessly away by the rushing torrent of water.

"The deck was now almost perpendichelplessly away by the rushing torrent of water.

"The deck was now almost perpendicular, and we crawled out on the open deck. It was evident that the end had come. By our side was a rope hanging from a davit from which a lifeboat had been washed. I grasped the rope, and calling to Alder, 'Come on, Will,' I let myself down into the sea. Whether Alder followed me or not I do not know.

"I was caught on the crest of a great wave and thrown away from the vessel. For what seemed an age I was under water. At last I was on the surface. I looked about. The great vessel was not to be seen. I grasped a scantling for support.

"The sea was literally covered with lumber of all sizes. I saw countless pleces carried to the crests of the waves and there seized by the furlous wind and hurled through the oir, giving to the poor strugglers in the sea painful wounds and even death blows. The wind and the waves seemed to join in most devilish glee in tossing about these weapons of death.

"Even while I was myself dodging the lumber and fighting for life, I could not fail to note the work of extermination about me.

"At last I caught hold of a boat in could not fail to note the work of extermination about me.

"At last I caught hold of a boat in which were Mr. Sutherland, Prof. Whiting and others whom I did not know. A great wave upset the beat, I swam to it again and was about to climb upon it when a scantling was thrown along the bottom of the boat, striking me on the forehead and knocking me back into the water.

"For a moment I was dazed by the blow, but, recovering, I caught a plece of lumber and swam to a life-raft near by, on which were two Mexican sailors. Others came to our raft, until there were ten of us.

others came to 'our raft, until there were ten of us.

"For two hours the tempest continued. Our raft was thrown about by the wind and waves with such power that it was almost impossible to hold our places upon it. Three times in succession, as it reached the crest of a wave it was overturned, and each time we saw our number reduced until at last there were but, five survivors of the ten who had been upon the raft.

"All this time the wind hurled the rain at us with such pitiless fury that our fiesh stung wherever exposed, and we were one and all literally covered with bruises that we received in the great struggle, and these were not made more comfortable by the salt water.

"In a general way we knew the course made more comfortable by the salt water.

"In a general way we knew the course to take to reach land, and knowing the steamer San Juan to be overdue, we had no hope of rescue from any steamer.

"We had no paddles, but after a few hours we were overtaken by another raft on which were five people. They gave us two paddles, and all night long we worked toward the shore.

"When Tuesday morning came, we could see land, now plainly in sight. We had drifted away from the other raft. It was fortunate in reaching a current which took it to land the next day, while it was our fate to be obliged to fight a current all the way to land, which kept us upon the see for four days.

"About 11 o'clock we were surprised."

while it was our fate to be obliged to fight a current all the way to land, which kept us upon the sea for four days.

"About 11 o'clock we were surprised and delighted to see a steamer about five miles to sea from us. We reversed our course to proceed toward her. For two hours we paddled. We improvised a signal made of a shirt, but after all our exertions we saw the boat steam away from us. It was the San Juan upon its regular trip but four days late. "Once more we resumed our course toward land, and all day and all night we paddled toward the shore, struggling with desperate energy.

Wednesday morning dawned with land in plainer view than ever before. But even with that hope before us, it was difficult to continue our-efforts. Not only had we had nothing to eat or drink since Monday's breakfast but it was fully as warm as 125 deg. in the shade, and this terrific heat beat down upon our bare heads until we were nearly crazed.

"As we worked our way along, we came upon a turtle, sleeping upon the water. We approached it stealthly and soon had it captive and between us we drank its blood. The crew of the raft consisted of the two Mexicans, a United States man-of-war's man, a Scotch sallor, and myself.

"The others all ate of the raw flesh of the turtle, but I could not swallow it. "When evening came on we were within one hundred yards of the shore. But it was as forbidding a coast as could be imagined. The sea beat against a bluff of solid rock and we counted that it would be death to us to attempt a landing there. We decided to spend another night upon the sea, and lay upon our oars.

"Thus the sea beat against a bluff of solid rock and we counted that it would be death to us to attempt a landing there. We decided to spend another night upon the sea, and lay upon our oars."

of dismay. During the night we had drifted about eight miles from shore. Our strength was well night exhausted. Moreover, the men were fairly crazed by the heat and their long abstinence from food and water. They talked incoherently. Their eyes were wild and dilated. They ordered imaginary stewards about and demanded food of one another. I began to fear that the saliors might turn covetous eyes upon me. But despite our suffering and craze, we worked with such zeal as is only known where life is at stake.

"One after another would take a turn at an oar, two working at a time, and struggle on until he would literally fall upon the raft in exhaustion.

"Along in the afaternoon we saw a company of Indians upon a beach. They had seen us, and gradually we neared them.

company of Indians upon a beach. They had seen us, and gradually we neared them.

"At 5:30 on that Thursday afternoon we were caught in the surf and carried forward to the beach with great rapidity. As the sixteen-foot raft struck the land it was thrown completely overendwise. Fortunately no one was injured. The Indians rushed down and pulled us from the water, helping us to their village near by.

"It was eighty-four hours, under most terrific heat and awful exposure, since we had had food or water.

"We were the beneficiaries of the most hospitable reception from the poor Indians. One who possessed scarcely any clothing but a beautiful sombrero, took that precious article from his head and put it on my head.

"The next afternoon the steamer Mazatlan appeared off the coast, having heard of our rescue, and sent a boat was wrecked on the breakers, and the men narrowly escaped. Another attempt was not made.

"Saturday we started for Tukaman, but when we had traveled nine miles to McClellan's ranch, I was forced by weakness to stop. There I remained until Tuesday under the kindest treatment, and Mr. McClellan and the overseer of his great ranch started with me to personally escort me to Collma.

Tuesday under the kindest treatment, and Mr. McClellan and the overseer of his great ranch started with me to personally escort me to Colima.

"We made the sixty miles to Tukaman on horseback by 4 p.m., and, really, I was more dead than alive when we reached that point, the heat having been almost beyond endurance.

"On the road through the great forests, we saw hundreds of monkeys and parrots, and in a great lagoon were scores of alligators.

"At Tukaman we caught a train for Colima, thence went to Manzanillo, and there took the San Juan, on its return from San Francisco for New York, stopping for a visit at Puatamala, and celebrating the Fourth of July at Panama. From Colon we went direct to New York, passing under the surveillance of a man-of-war in Cuban waters, and at last, after an extended visit in the East, reaching home."

Errington Did Not Do It. The statement made by an evening paper that John Craig, the triple mur-derer, wrote a note to Sheriff Burr in-forming him that the ball of tinfoll forming him that the ball of tinfoll found in Craig's cell was put there by J. Bidwell Errington, is a canard, so the Sheriff says. Even had Errington ried to give Craig anything, he could not have done it, as he has never been confined on the same floor as Craig. Craig denies that he had intended to use the ball of tinfoll as a weapon, or had made any attempt to conceal it. Putting the blame on Errington on the eve of his trial, which begins today, might do him harm. It is, therefore, but an act of justice to explain, on the authority given, that Errington had nothing to do with the matter whatever.

THE COUNTY HOSPITAL.

A City of Refuge for Some and the Ante-room of Death for Others— Many Odd Characters and Sad

Disease, insanity and pitiful deform ity are not usually pleasant subjects for contemplation, but when these inevitable ills, which are visited upon a large proportion of poor humanity, are seen in connection with every alleviation which skill and charity can devis to lessen suffering, the horror is lost in admiration for the brave devotion which leads physicians and nurses to sacrifice ease and comfort for the sake of their high profession, and to count no effort lost which is for the advanceent of the science of healing.

Such is the chief impression left by a yisit to the County Hospital. Many painful sights greet the visitor who ac-companies the physician on his daily companies the physician on his daily round, and many pitiful stories of sin and suffering are told by the haggard faces and maimed and distorted bodies of the poor patients who have drifted within its charitable doors, many of them only to die; but over all is scrupulous order and exquisite cleanliness, and an air of comfort and even of content pervades the entire establishment.

This comfort and order have cost the present superintendent, Dr. D. C. Barber, many hours of anxious scheming and energetic effort outside of his heavy professional duties. The hospital was left generously stocked with all that was necessary for the well-being of the professional duties. The hospital was left generously stocked with all that was necessary for the well-being of the patients at the departure of Dr. Brainerd, but during the incumbency of Dr. Hagan, few fresh supplies were purchased, and everything was conducted on a strictly economical plan. With a full stock of everything, this was easy, but supplies came to an end, and when Dr. Barber assumed control the hospital was in sore need of refurnishing, and almost an entire new stock of bedding, etc., to replace the worn-out supplies that had served their time. The county had struck an economical streak, and the Board of Supervisors still insisted upon the most rigid cutting down of all expenses, but inch by inch the superintendent has succeeded in getting fresh, clean coats of paint upon the worn-out floors and upon the iron bedsteads and plain wooden chairs, and new mattresses to replace those which no longer afforded comfort to the poor, aching bodies, as well as many other modest improvements which go so far toward giving the establishment its present air of plain comfort and cleanliness.

Chief of all the improvements, though, toward giving the establishment its present air of plain comfort and clean-liness.

Chief of all the improvements, though, and the one which has cost Dr. Barber the hardest battle, is the corps of sixteen trained nurses which has replaced the old unskilled service. The hospital is the training school in which these girls receive the best of practical experience in dealing with all kinds of disease, and for the education thus received they gladly give their services for two years, receiving only their hoard and lodging and $5 h month for necessary books and clothing.

It is a pleasant sight to see all these wholesome, fresh-faced girls moving quietly about among the sick and suffering in the different wards, giving the thousand little attentions that are necessary in a sick room, preparing dainty dishes in the little kitchen, compounding medicines in the drug-room opposite the office, and nursing helpless mothers and wee morsels of humanity just born into a world of trouble, as well as aged men and women who are veryle wards to leave it forever. They just born into a world of trouble, as well as aged men and women who are nearly ready to leave it forever. They assist in the surgical operations which take place nearly every day, and give skilled and patient care to the sufferer in the critical days which come after the terrible ordeal; they acquire a practical knowledge of drugs and their uses, and are trained with the utmost care in all the minutiae which often mean life or death in the care of a patient n all the minutiae which often mean fe or death in the care of a patient dangerously ill.

Education, refinement, intelligence and sound physical health are made the sine qua non, and it would be hard to find a finer group of women than those who are devoting their time to the care of the sick and poor. The very uniform makes each girl a wholesome picture of quiet neatness. The dress of checked gingham and the spotless cap and apron of white muslin would make the plainest woman attractive, and, upon these fresh young girls, it is irresistibly quaint and pretty.

There are fifteen wards in the hose quaint and pretty.

There are fifteen wards in the hospital and from nine to twenty-five beds in each ward. Of these, the fullest just now is the consumption ward, filled with patient, hopeful, emaciated creatures slowly wasting away in the grasp of the terrible disease. The fever ward has only three or four patients, and with these a somewhat novel course of treatment is being successfully pursued. In fever cases, the chief remedies used are good food, careful nursing and a liberal use of the bath-tub whenever the temperature gets dangerously high.

sused are good food, careful remedies used are good food, careful ursing and a liberal use of the bath-tub whenever the temperature gets dangerously high. Very little medicine is given, and, so far, every case under this treatment has resulted in complete recovery. In the other wards, many odd characters are seen, from the paralyzed old horsethief who has not walked a step for twenty years, to a pitiful mite of a boy, gasping away his young life in the agony of a terrible heart-trouble, and crying because he cannot run out into the warm sunshine.

Many men and women who have seen better days and known the sunny side of life before tasting the bitterness of misery, are there. In one of the narrow, clean little beds lies a woman with large eyes and a delicate, intellectual face, who is a graduate of Wellesley College, and once traveled through Europe as a correspondent for the New York World. Walking, or rather, staggering up and down the porch every warm afternoon, is a man who was once a prominent and waalthy merchant of St. Louis, now a pauper, and afflicted with a terrible disease of the brain. Sitting in a big arm-chair, and dozing his life away, is a white-haired old man in whose office some of our most prominent lawyers were prepared for the bar. One of Dr. Barber's most cherished plans for improvement is the replacing of the old ranges by an apparatus for steam heating and cooking. Besides the greater convenience and cleanliness, it will save enough in the bill for fuel to pay for itself in a very few years, as oil is less than half the price of the coal now used.

A steam laundry will soon be built, and the superintendent has hopes of new brick wards, so badly needed and once almost granted by the county. The dairy, which is supplied with the milk from fifteen cows, and which supplies the hospital, is kept cool and fresh by a stream of running water which flows through it, and the chicken-yard, under the care of Billy McGoon, keeps up the poultry end of the establishment in excellent shape.

there are now three, Drs. Joseph King, Ralph Hagan and George W. Hawkins, and these take, in turn, the different wards of the hospital, serving without compensation and for the experience. compensation and for the experience.
The hospital is remarkably well carried on in spite of the many disadvantages arising from lack of funds, but so much still needs to be done that it is to be sincerely hoped that the day is not far distant when the county will feel able to fit out this most deserving institution as it should be.

The opening reception of the evening classes of the Young Men's Christian Association was held last evening in the Dr. J. T. Price, chairman of the Educa Dr. J. T. Price, chairman of the Educa-tional Committee, presided and the corps of teachers occupied the piatform. After a selection by the Y. M. C. A. nust think. Education is possible to every man, even without college or school. It is not the number of sciences that a man masters, but the manner in which he masters the one subject which counts. Whether by the pine knot, the tallow candle, or the student's lamp, he can learn aright. All that lies before men for good and right is before you. Great and valuable as colleges are for the advancement of learning among men, they are not the exclusive avenue to culture. There is nothing so grand in this world as a clean young man. To such a man culture comes as an embellishment. See that the house in which you live is clean. 'Knowledge is power,' but it is a power to sweep the heavens or to bring ruin. We should seek it for excellence in life. That education is to be deprecated which sends a man from the lathe to the store, from the farm to the office. I would have you seek education so that you can transmute your powers into service. I ask no greater blessing for you than that you should be a blessing to your fellows. A cultured mind dignifies any employment.' General Secretary Ball followed with an outline of the work for the coming season. The number of studies has been materially increased and efforts have been made to grade the courses of study. Prizes of a membership will be offered for excellence of work. George W. Hodge of New York city, the educational secretary of the International Committee of Y. M. C.A's, was present, having come to the city to attend the convention which opens Thursday. He made a short address upon the educational work, using charts and presenting some very striking figures. Mr. Hodge will make another address Saturday evening. An exhibit of work being done in other places by classes of the Young Men's Christian Association has been put up in the parlors and was inspected by the students. The exhibit is open to the public. After the meeting a large number of young men encolled themselves in the various classes. The supper and welcoming exercises to the convention delegates will occur th

MINING NEWS.

The Merced Mines-San Andrea

The Merced Gold Mining Company, a corporation of well-known capitalists and mining men, has been buying property in the rich mineral district around Coulterwills said to be one of the best Coulterville, said to be one of the best in the United States, and intend to put the latest improved meable. latest improved machinery into the on a large scale.

Most of these mines have been worked once, in a way, and therein lies one of the proofs that they are still rich in gold. As far back as 1849 and 1850 many gold. As far back as 1849 and 1850 many of these same mines were being developed, though the development at that time consisted principally of surface scratching. A good worker could in those times take enough gold from the top of the ground in one day to pay a trip to New York and back at present prices, and he did it without machinery, too. But one by one the mines were closed and abandoned and have remained idle for many years, waiting for development at the hands of capital. During the past few years capital has been seeking that sort of investment, and has been finding it in large quantities in the Coulterville mining district. A fine ledge of quarts has been located at San Andreas, on the ranch of J. H. Wells, which shows indications of being one of the best mines in that locality. The lead is about fifty feet in which the rock is neavily laded, which will at least produce an equal quantity of the yellow metal.

Mr. Wells has given a working bond on the mine to an English syndicate, and work will probably be commenced at once.

Another rich strike at San Andreas has been made by John Scieffard, who discovered in his mine a rich vein of quartz about two and a half feet wide. Some of the ore taken out contained good-sized lumps of pure gold.

It is reported that the New York mine, three miles west of Jackson, which has been held so persistently by W. G. Anderson for so many years, has been sold to a San Francisco company, and will be started up shortly as the Evening Star mine.

w. G. Anderson for so many years, has been sold to a San Francisco company, and will be started up shortly as the Evening Star mine.

Ten stamps of the Amador Queen mill have been started on refuse rock. This is to get the mill in good working shape for the test crushing, which will commence next week. It is proposed to run through about three hundred tons of ore taken from. the bottom of the shaft. The plates are resilvered and everything has been done to make the test a fair one as far as the gold-yielding properties of the rock by mill process are concerned. The ledge is large enough to keep forty or sixty stamps running steadily. If the rock mills $3 per ton a big mining industry will be developed at this point.

Contracts have been let by Maj. Mc-Laughlin for the erection of a powerhouse, hoisting works, blacksmith shop, bunkhouses and other buildings at the Rock River mine, near Oroville, and a force of men will be put to work cleaning out the old shaft, which was sunk to a depth of 250 feet, and open and develop the mine.

The contract for hauling coke for the Old Dominion Copper Company at Yuma has been let, and 500 teams will be set at hauling coke for the Francisco Serna of Santa Anais grading the site for the erection of a five-stamp mill at Arituava, about thirty miles west of Liano.

James A. Fleming of Phoenix has purchased a one-half interest in the Gates group of mines from George H. Miles for $3000. The owners are both experienced men and are determined to push development as rapidly as possible.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.

AGENTS NEGOTIATING FOR THE OUTPUT AT HIGHER RATES.

Wells is a Cinch Game—The Oil Exchange Mum, but Mr. Harvey Talks Right Out.

The hearts of the local oil-producers beat more hopefully than they did last week. Competitive bidding has begun, and oil rose from 10 to 15 cents above former prices yesterday.

There did not appear to be any concerted action in the matter of offers for the oil. Individual dealers visited wellowners and offered to buy the entire output of their wells for prices ranging from 35 to 45 cents for different periods of time—mostly from three months to a year. Four contractors called on W. S. year. Four contractors called on W. S. Young, at his Victor-street well, and made him a bid of 45 cents for all the oil from his well, adding the offer to sign a contract for any length of time up to a year.

The Standard Oil Company's local agent, J. C. Harvey, did not visit the oil fields, but it is thought probable that some of the buyers were agents of the Standard.

The ordinance providing for a license.

oil fields, but it is thought probable that some of the buyers were agents of the Standard.

The ordinance providing for a license tax of $3 a quarter on each well, recently passed by the City Council, is not at all agreeable to the oil-producers. No agreement concerning the way in which a struggle against the collection of the tax shall be made has been entered into, but none of the oil men have paid it, and most of them say they don't intend to. Said James Powell:

"It was said, at the time of the adoption of the ordinance, that the money was needed to pay the oil inspector. That official receives $270 a quarter, and if his salary were the only thing to be covered by the tax, $270 a quarter would be all that the ordinance would cause the oil men to pay in licenses. But there are fully three hundred wells in the district, and, at $3 a quarter, $900 will flow into the city treasury every collection day. In other words, the city will make a profit amounting to nearly three-quarters of the entire tax receipts. Considering that the oil industry is one of the most important in Los Angeles, and is also only partly developed, it doesn't appear exactly right to saddle at i-a-month tax on the oil-producers. The owner of the land pays taxes on it, and the oil-well owner pays taxes on the siriling and pumping plant, and this third tax is not fair—at least such a large tax is not."

William Brophy, manager of the Carbon Hill Oil Company, was equally decided in his views: "Ever since the oil men began to develop the oil district here," said Mr. Brophy, "attempts have been made to burden them with all sorts of restrictions. Why can't the public jeave the oil men alone :ill they get on their feet? The tax is all right, if it simply covers the salary of the oil inspector, but there should not be a suggestion of a money-making scheme in the thing. It is a small business for a city to cinch a local industry which is scarcely established, and needs encouragement instead of restrictions and impositions."

The Oil Exchange held an

The Oil Exchange held an executive The Oil Exchange held an executive session yesterday afternoon. The attitude of the exchange toward the many difficulties under which the oil producers labor is a complete mystery. In the mean time Mr. Harvey is very frank, apparently, concerning the projects of his company, He says the Standard has experts at work obtaining data as to the heat units of the oil and that, as soon as the work is completed, the Standard will be able to bid intelligently for the oil.

for the oil.

Burdett Chandler's well on Beaudry avenue is down 570 feet and there is about one hundred and twenty-five feet of oil in it. The drill is now in shale and it is expected that oil-bearing sand will be reached very soon. Mr. Chandler will move his cottage to make way for his second well and begin drilling it as soon as No. 1 is finished.

The National Oil Company's well at Victor and Crescent is down 880 feet and there have been no indications of oil so far.

James Powell's well on Victor ha reached a depth of 450 feet and seepag oil has appeared.

Z. H. Weller's well, No. 1, will be re-their Figueroa-street new well last Saturday and were down 100 feet yesterday.

The Davis, Sloan & Biers well on Figueroa has been drilled 500 feet and the oil indications are good.

The Carbon Hill Oil Company started to pump the water from their 911-foot well on West State yesterday. Other wells will be started by the company shortly.

The Southern California Oil Company will begin drilling a new well on Omaha this morning.

The Rex Oil Company will begin drilling their new wells south of Rockwood and west of Belmont avenue this morning. Other wells will be begun soon by the company.

The putting in of casing at the American Oil Company's well, No. 5, was finished yesterday, and pumping will begin at once.

Charles Lathrop, who owns six wells in the oil district, has secured connections with the Williams pipe line and will store his product at Seventh and Santä Fe.

The Beach, Young & Cochrane well, on Victor, gives excellent indications.

W. H. Tubbs will soon begin drilling a new well on Metcalf. His No. 1 well is $50 feet deep and has an output of forty barrels daily.

Moran's

Magnificent Masterpiece.

The attention of connoisseurs and critics in the world of art, and of all people of culture and refinement, is especially called to the fact that the lithographic reproduction of this celebrated painting was made under the special personal direction of the artist Moran himself, Every one of the twenty-one component colors used in the printing was first approved by the artist before being put upon the lithographic stone.

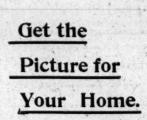

> The Grandeur of the Gorge Portrayed.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado, that wonderland of the world, pictured by an artist whose conception was striking, resistless, grand. Thomas Moran's painting, "THE GRAND CANYON OF THE COLORADO," was the artistic triumph and sensation of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago. The faithfulness of the artist in picturing the awful grandeur of the gorge; the delightful delicacy with which he has touched the rolling clouds of mist; the masterly manner in which he has handled Nature's coloring; that melodrama of flame and gold, and rose and wine and azure, is altogether 19th Century Genius.

It is only high genius that has made possible the reproduction of such a splendid work of art, without the loss of a single sun glint; with all the heights and depths of shade luminously portrayed—a reproduction so real that the master whose hand guided the brush-strokes on the original canvas says of it, in effect: "As perfect as perfect can be."

It is this great lithographic triumph, this magnificent reproduction of Moran's famous picture, 22 % x38 % inches in size, that THE TIMES has arranged to supply to subscribers. were women and most of the crimes were committed in cold blood.

"A number of the outside constables told me," he said, "that they are afforded no backing by the Supervisor or by the District Attorney's office in attemnts to eath criminals those of or by the District Attorney's officials decliring to allow the necessary fees and expenses. These constables complain that the District Attorney's office and the Board of Supervisors are Populists and that in trying to make a great show of economy those officials will not allow necessary expenses.

"The constables say that it is very discouraging to them to try to catch the criminals when their expenses therefor are not allowed.

"Too much blame in the matter should not be attached to the Sheriff's office, for Sheriff Jennings, since he came into office, has been afflicted with some disease of the eyes by which he has almost lost his eyesight. Nevertheless the condition of things as far as the apprehension of criminals is concerned is a disgrace to San Diego county."

An Accident Averted.

By the quickness of Judge McKinley, what might have been a serious accident was averted yesterday afternoon. A carriage containing a man and women was caught between the cartrack and the pile of bricks of the northeast corner of Broadway and Third street, while a cable car was passing. The rear wheel of the carriage was struck by the car, the vehicle being lifted several feet into the air, spilling the man to the ground, who fell beneath the carriage. The car was stopped at once, and the frightened horse quieted by Judge McKinley. No injury was sustained by either the carriage or its occupants. An Accident Averted

A SCHOLARSHIP.

SCHEME TO FOUND ONE FOR THE

The Los Angeles High School Alumni fo Consider the Matter This Evening—A Scaretty of Scholar-ships in This State.

A meeting of the Los Angeles High School alumni has been called for this evening, which promises to be of unusual interest, not only to the alumni members themselves, but to many other people of this city.

The head of the Alumni Association, Miss Mary E. Foy, '75, together with other recognized leaders, has formulated a plan whereby a perpetual scholarship in the State University for the benefit of the High School graduates may be founded. It is for the purpose of bringing this question before the somay be founded. It is for the purpose of bringing this question before the society that the meeting has been arranged, with Judge Cheney, Leslie R. Hewitt and Henry, O'Melveney as orators of the evening.

It may here be said that no scholarship in the State University has everbeen endowed by any person or persons in the southern part of the State And of all the 514 that have graduated from the High School, from the first class of '75 down to the present day, but one person has been enabled to take a college course through the aid of a scholarship. That one was Misa Thirzey Brookman, '94. It was mrinip through the efforts of the law firm of Graves, Shankland & O'Melveney that Miss Brookman was enabled to obtain the prize.

Mr. O'Melveney is a member of the Speaking of the matter of scholarships and of how this solitary plum fell to our lot, Mr. O'Melveney said in substance:

The university is not overburdened with endowed scholarships. At present there exists only the one of Mrs. Hearst, widow of the Senator, and the two fellowships called the Joseph Le Count fellowships, which are for the benefit of the graduates of the university only. Mrs. Hearst's endowment provides for eight scholarships of $300 a year, solely for young women. The two fellowships are each of $600 a year, and allow one year's post-graduate course in any university in the world. Prof. Le Count's own son won one of the two fellowships which were first awarded, and spent his year at Cornell. There are no scholarships proper open to young men. The ald of Mrs. Hearst is extended at the discretion of the regents when vacancies occur. At the time of my application for Miss Brookman, her request was one of fifty and the pressure brought to bear was so great that the regents were placed in a very embarrassing position. Mrs. Hearst was petitioned to change her arrangement of eight scholarships of $300, to twelve of $200. But she refused so to do, believing it impossible for a student to live properly on less than $300 a year. The regents awarded the vacant scholarship to a young woman who had proven her claims to the honor during the freshman year. But such were the qualifications of Miss Brookman's record at the High School was almost unprecedented. She completed the four years course in three, doing one year's work in one summer vacation.

The probable course of procedure the Alumni Association in undertaking the task set is outlined; as follows: Individual members of the association will be, steal, waylay, rob or plunder, for this fund must be raised." The leaders are enthusiasm itself even though they realize that it is a long pull and a strong pull before success can be hoped for.

phrey B. Kendrick, who every year spends several months in Japan, has just returned from his last pilgrimage to the land of dragons and chrysanthe-mums. He says that the heat has been insufferable over there this summer, and that during July the country was treated to such a prodigious down; treated to such a prodigious downpour of rain that the inhabitants thereof had to hustle to keep from drowning. Yokohama, Tokio and Kobe have had the biggest sort of a season, and the hotels have been jammed.

While the death rate from cholera has been frightful, the disease has been with the season and the hotels were few white people have died from it.

Mr. Kendrick says that things are very unsettled in Japan; that the middle class and a certain younger class are suffering from the "fatted head," and the idea of a war with Russia is extremely popular with them, while the elder and wiser ones are trying to avoid any more collisions. Missionaries are leaving Japan and China in flocks, as they find that, since the war, they can do nothing with the people, who really seem only too anxious to have them go.

Mr. Kendrick spoke enthusiastically of the great exposition in celebration of the founding of Kioto 1200 years ago, the was a tremendous affair, and many large and handsome buildings were erected for the purpose. The art gallery was most interesting, and splendid specimens of modern glazing and porcelains and superb objets d'art, commanding fabulous prices, were exhibited. Many of the Japanese artists have been to Italy and France, and now paint wonderfully in other schools than their own.

A Female Forger.

The recent visits of J. T. Sheward, the Spring-street dry goods merchant, to the police station are explained by the statement that he has had officers at work trying to detect the drawer of a spurious check passed off on him a short time ago. The way the story is stold is to the effect that a prosperous-looking woman visited the store and bought a bill of goods amounting to $126, which she ordered delivered at the Hollenbeck Hotel, where she purported to be staying. On delivery of the goods she drew a check for $126 on the San Gabriel Valley Bank of Passadena which she gave in payment in lieu of cash. By the time the check was presented and found to be worthless, the woman had disappeared and has not been seen in the city since.

IMPORTANT STATISTICS FROM THE FRUIT-GROWERS.

Apperson-The Jail Inadequate for Female Prisoners-Death of Milford Fish-A Stolen Bieyele in PASADENA, Oct. 7.—(Regular Corre-pondence.). The case against Mrs. Ap-erson, who is charged with a violation f ordinance No. 220, has been dismissed and her husband has not yet been hear from. It will be remembered that Ap-person is the man who was released on his own recognizance, when arrested by the Marshal charged with violation of the liquor ordinance. He claimed that Fluke was the owner of the place that Fluke was the owner of the place, and his story was so plausible that he was released, he promising to appear the next morning. He has not yet ap-peared. The day after Apperson left, his wife retailed about half a barrel of heer and a warrant was issued for her peared. The day after Apperson left, his wife retailed about half a barrel of beer, and a warrant was issued for her arrest, the complaint being written by Attorney Arthur. She eluded the officers and went to Colton, whither she was followed and brought back to Pasadena. Mrs. Apperson now alleges that she was. badly used, and was a suffering victim, but she owes the dismissal of the charge against her solely to the fact that Pasadena had no jail accommodations for her, and it was manifest that she was unable to pay her fine, and would therefore be obliged to remain in jail a day for every doilar she was mulcted. The Pasadena jail is a mere shanty, and the incarceration of a woman in it, even for the minimum period required by the penalty for iliquor selling, was regarded by the court and the officers a greater offense against public morals and decency than the offense with which she was charged. It is a fact that the jail is a mere shed with its four small cells usually in requisition for "drunks" and "vags," and it was out of humanity that Mrs. Apperson was kept in Recorder Rossiter's office until il o'clock at night, until she secured her bondsmen, instead of being incarcerated, as is customary when bondsmen are not forthcoming. She was arraigned in the regular way, the charges read to her, and she made her plea. The evidence against her was conclusive, but the reasons that the cases and they emphasize the need of a new jail.

FRUIT - GROWERS' ASSOCIATION.

FRUIT - GROWERS' ASSOCIATION. The annual meeting of the Fruit-growers' Association was held this afternoon in Recorder Rossiter's courtafternoon in Recorder Rossiter's courtroom, and about sixty members were present. This number was not sufficlent to constitute a quorum according to the provisions of the constitution of the association. It was therefore impossible to perform any business legally, but the president, George F.
Karnaghan, said that he would recommend that the reports be read. Before this was done Mr. Kernaghan made a few remarks. He urged upon the growers mend that the reports be read. Before this was done Mr. Kernaghan made a few remarks. Heurged upon the growers the importance of shipping good fruit, because the sale of poor fruit is an injury to the credit of the association. He advised a change in the form of agreement with shippers, whereby a refusal to pack poor fruit would be one of the clauses. He also advised a change in the by-laws and said that the banks were willing to advance money on warehouse receipts of oranges, to cnable the exchanges to handle the fruit promptly. Mr. Kernaghan said that while warehouse receipts of oranges, to enable the exchanges to handle the fruit promptly. Mr. Kernaghan said that while the year just closed had been a bad one for oranges, the association of Pasadena had been more fortunate than many similar organizations. He complimented Messrs. Weight and Jones, the former the manager and the latter the secretary of the business of the association, for their services, and then made way for the latter gentleman, who read a statement of the last season's business, which was as follows:

Boxes of oranges marketed through son's business, which was as follows:

Boxes of oranges marketed through the exchange, 20,294; boxes of lemons marketed, 815; total, 21,109 boxes. Cash received, $17,958.47; cash paid growers, $8905.86. $8905.86.
The principal items paid out in marketing the fruit were: Box material, $2654.84; box making, $212.13; cleaning fruit, $764.32; packing fruit, $651.61; labor, $718.39; paper, $473.07; nails, $30.69.
The total shipments of 21,109 boxes of fruit, equal to about seventy cars, are far greater than those of last year, when the association shipped but forty-two cars.

DEATH OF MULECED FISH.

DEATH OF MILFORD FISH.

There are few men who have done more for the advancement of Pasadena than did Milford Fish. one of its oldest citizens, who died this afternoon of con-sumption. Mr. Fish had been ailing sumption. Mr. Fish had been alling more or less all summer, but only during the last three weeks has his illness been considered serious, and its final termination comes as a shock to the community where Mr. Fish was well known and deeply respected. Mr. Fish was born in Hamburgh. New York, in the year 1829, and made his first visit to California in the golden days of '49, coming across the plains and remaining on this Coast two years. He then returned to New York and engaged successfully in mercantile pursuits. Retiring from business in 1886 he came to Pasadena and established his home on Marengo avenue at the corner of Florcessfully. In mercantile pursuits. Retiring from business in 1858 he came to Pasadena and established his home on Marengo avenue at the corner of Florence street, where he had ever since resided. He finvested largely in real estate, and built the Fish Block on Colorado street. Mr. Fish was a man of carnest patriotism and public spirit and took a deep interest in municipal improvements. When the subject of street paving was under discussion, he succeeded in having certain specifications for such work adopted by the Council, and all of the paving was done according to them. So excellent have they proven that other city councils have adopted them. Mr. Fish was a member of the Baptist church, and was a man of spiritual nature and high convictions of religious duty. He has been largely instrumental in the prosperity of his chosen denomination in this community. Personally Mr. Fish was a man of conservative thought, a tender husband and father, and his heart was always open to the unfortunate. He leaves a widow and nine children, a son and a daughter who reside in Buffalo being at present on their way West.

Paul Noriega was one of the participants and a stranger from Arkansas the other. They had been playing seven-up or some kindred game for money, and the stranger accused for money, and the stranger accused Noriega of cheating. This he followed up by foul language, and then strück Noriega over the head with his revolver. At this Noriega drew his own gun, and, clubbing it, knocked down the stranger. Both then began shooting. The guns popped and bullets whizzed, and there was a general ducking and dodging in the smoke of battle. When the air cleared they both came forth, unscathed.

E. Keech and C. S. McKelvey of Santa Ana and E. A. Honey and Ernest Parker of Orange. The start was made about 10 o'clock from Abbott's landing for the seven-mile run, all bunched, but it was not long until the little craft owned by Mr. Parker of Orange shoved its nose ahead, creating a ripple of water that seemed to-ing defeat into the very ears of its competitors. But the Jeannette, owned by Mr. Keech, was right after the Orange boat, skimming over the water lightly and smoothly. Mr. Honey from Orange and Maj. McKelvey from Santa Ana could not keep close enough to the other crafts to make the race interesting, so they dropped out, after which, of course, all interest centered in the two leaders. Mr. Honey feed all the way until on the homestretch, where the channel was narrow, when he stuck in the mud. He was about half a mile ahead of the Jeannette when this misfortume overtook him, but he could not extricate his craft before Mr. Keech and the Jeannette sailed swiftly by, amil great applause, to victory, winning the plaudits of the spectators and the championship of Orange county.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 7.—(Regular Correspondence.) The date for initial races on the new bleycle track here is announced as Sunday next, which fact challenges attention to the unfinished condition of the grandstand and other properties. But the builders are getting a hustle on themselves, and there is no question but that everything will be in ship-shape before the end of the week. The carpenters worked all, day yesterday, and the holiday character of today passed by unnoted. Nothing is being slighted or done temporarily, but the whole business is built "from the ground up," and will be a credit to the Southern Pacific Company and a permanent drawing-card for Santa Monica.

The best joke of the season was the arrest this morning the season was the arrest this morning of four valiant Nimrods, who not only broke the State game laws, with malice aforethought, but upon the day that it is supposed city officials, at least, will be either at home or sitting quietly in their pews at church. around in search of law-breakers, and in consequence the mourners' seat is filled with four dejected mortals and the sinners on the back seats are jubilant. The plentiful supply of quali this season has been a very strong temptation to the gunners to infringe the law, and the opening of the season so late was looked upon as an unnecessary torture, and there has not been a Sunday, the day of rest, but some uneasy Nimrod has been out in the brush to secure a few for supper. Recently there was organized in this city a new detective agency, and it is supposed, though it is not so announced by the members, that this arrest is a sample of just trying their hand on "slick work." At all events the secretary of the State Board of Fish Commissioners, which also has charge of the game preserves, got an events the secretary of the State Board of Fish Commissioners, which also has charge of the game preserves, got an inkling that the law he was paid to see enforced was in a measure a dead letter in this portion of the State and came down to investigate the rumor. Sunday being an excellent time for such work he started out yesterday morning in a buggy to traverse the plains to the west of town. He heard guns in every direction but on interviewing the owners found that they were either poor marksmen or were out after rabbits only and exclusively. At length he was more fortunate, for he struck the party mentioned, consisting of City Trustee M. A. Pace, Deputy City Marshal T. J. Starke, Policeman Tom Carter and William Thode, a wholesale merchant of liquid refreshments. They were all good marksmen and 'rather boastful of their prowes, flashing up plenty of game to prove their assertion, and the secretary of the State board, Arthur G. Fletcher, came to town and this morning obtained the mecessary warrants and soon had the parties looking up bail to keep themselves out of quod. They promise to fight the case to the bitter end and when it comes up for trial there will evidently be some interesting bits of history developed.

GROWING INDUSTRY.

Courageous Act—Meeting of the Navel Orange Company—Street Railroad Construction—A Case of Malicious Mischief—Important Meetings on the Tapis.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 7.—(Regular Cor espondence.) Horticultural Commis-ioners Van Kirk and Havens have jus compiled some statistics which are contained in Secretary Havens's report the State Board of Horticulture, which have before been given in these col-umns, but the relative values of the citrus and deciduous-fruit lands have not been before given. Secretary Ha-vens's report says: "The magnitude of the fruit-growing interests of this county is best arrived at by a study of the following figures: The Assessor's ounty is best arrived at by a study of the following figures: The Assessor's books show there are 113,367 acres of fruit lands in the county, with water-rights. This land is assessed at 34,230,340, and the fruit trees growing on it at 3858,747. When we consider that all fruit trees under 4 years of age are not assessed under the present law, and that in Riverside Valley more than one-half the trees are in that category, we can form some conception of not only the present importance but the future greatness of this overshadowing industry. The values given do not include the buildings on these lands, nor the water properties, nor pipe lines, ditches, canals, dams, etc. With these included it would show that fully 70 per cent. of the taxable property of the county is included in this industry. There are 25,149 acres devoted to horticulture in the county, divided as follows: Citrus fruits, 15,407 acres; deciduous, 7286; grapes, 1556, and olives, 900. There were over four thousand acres newly planted this year to fruits—citrus. 800 acres; deciduoses; decidioses; over four thousand acres newly planted this year to fruits—citrus, 800 acres; de-ciduous, 2000; olives, 300. A few years and the area of our orchards will be doubled. There were shipped from Riverside Valley the past season 837,147 boxes of oranges, and about seventy carloads of lemons, and from South Riverside forty-four carloads of oranges and lemons, making a grand total of 871,347 boxes, or 2904 carloads of 300 boxes each. The totals of the crops of deciduous fruits for the present year are not accessible yet, but are known to far exceed former years.

yet, but are known to far exceed former years.

When we consider that not to exceed one-third of our orchards are in bearing, and not over one-fourth in full bearing, it can be seen that an enormous increase in our fruit product will occur in the very near future."

The report concludes with, "I would say horticulture in this county is on a better basis than ever before, and with the success of the co-operative marketing of fruit its future is brighter than ever."

After Mr. Higgins fell from the bucket, his brother Hugh went down and he was immediately affected by the gas. Something must be done, and of ten men present, Mr. Barber was the only one to volunteer to go into the well. He went down, cut the rope from the bucket and tied it about the body of the injured man, the crazed brother all the time protesting and fighting with him. After the lifeless man had been hoisted out the rope was then placed about the body of Hugh Higgins and he was hoisted to the surface, and then Mr. Barber came up almost exhausted.

Blast—News Notes.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 7.—(Regular Correspondence.) The murder of the hardworking old German woman, Mrs.
Sandrock, in Mission Valley on Saturday, is the talk of the town. This goodnatured, inoffensive woman earned her living by keeping a small grocery store on the main road to the Old Mission. She had won the good will of thousands of San Diegans who have had occasion to stop at her store while driving that way. They remember her cheeriness of disposition. Always a pleasant word and a smile. She never grumbled at the vicissitudes of life. Now that she has been struck down by a cludgeon in the hands of a human brute and murdered in a shocking manner the whole community is aroused. There is a warm desire for vengeance. The depraved biped who murdered this old woman, if apprehended, may get a taste of Judge Lynch's methods. Mrs. Sandrock is the second old woman murdered in this county within a month. The murderer of the first victim is believed to be in custody awaiting strial by the Superior Court. The frequency of murder in San Diego county of late is a matter of general comment among the people. The necessity for sharp, swift punishment for this awful crime becomes more apparent as the murder record lengthens.

The hotels are already well filled, and rooms are being engaged in advance for the Silkwood-Waldo J. race, which comes off on Thursday. Some disappointment was felt over the fact that Chéhalis, the Oregon horse, would not participate in the big event, but as Silkwood is here, and John Willits wants a chance to demonstrate the fact that Orange county can outpace Ventura, a cracking race will surely take place. Saturday's race at Fresno was a killing one, and Waldo J. outclassed the Oregon black in three heats which have had no parellel this season. Jimmy Mack, the pride of Ventura, informed the Times correspondent that the race on Saturday was the hardest he had

The prominence of the pariles made the matter one of considerable street comment. It is thought that when the men consider the matter soberly they will withdraw the complaints and settle their differences out of court.

PIONEER RESIDENT ILL. ia. D. Barnard, a ploneer resident of this county, and one of the most active business men in this section of the State, was stricken down Saturday afternoon with an apoplectic fit. He was unconsclous for nearly two hours, when he regained consciousness for a short interval. At midnight he was stricken with a second attack, and at this writing is reported to be beyond hope of recovery.

Was Not Destitute.

A report has come to The Times denying the statements made in an article a few days ago regarding the Tucker family on Rowen street, near East Side Park. The father, it appears, has had regular employment, but during his daughter's illness he staid at home to care for her. Groceries to the amount of $3 were sent to the family by the Associated Charities through a misrepresentation, a neighbor having reported the family was destitute. Mr. Tucker is able and willing to pay for the groceries. The family was not lacking in food or clothing. Mr. Tucker owns his home and built the house himself. He moved into it about three weeks before the accident to his child. The information in the article in question, except as to the death of the child, was obtained from Police Matron Gray. family on Rowen street, near East Side

The control of the co The success of the mission work among our people is not an open question, as claimed by some, but is an accomplished fact. Every honest and fair-minded person who has given much thought on the subject and has investigated the same for himself, would come to no other conclusion but that the work is a splendid success, a success of which every Christian people should be proud. The success would be still more triumphant and more wonderful if we take the great obstacles to the work into consideration. It is a well known fact that the good influence of the godly missionaries in China is partially neutralized by the greedy and immoral conduct of most of the foreign traders and sallors in China, who are the most stubborn and bitter enemies to the missionaries there. And in this country, nearly every Chinese colony is surrounded by most shameless and abandoned white women with their equally shameless male consorts. The influence of such a surrounding could be better imagined than described. And what Chinaman has not been assaulted, kicked, stoned and cursed in this country by a certain class of white people? Is it not a wonder that in the face of all this, a single Chinaman could be induced to discard the revered religion of his fathers to embrace that of the white men, not to say anything about the large number who have already done so? Dr. A. Smith once said that he expected to see much surprise in heaven, but the greatest surprise would be to see a Chinaman there by way of California. There is a great deal of truth in that.

There are many hundred converted Chinese in this country who are just as consistent in their lives, faithful to their wows and active in missionary purposes, they comparemore favorably with their richer white brethren. During the past three years the Presbyterian Chinese converts in this State raised several thousand dollars among themselves for the purpose of building chaples and supporting native missionaries in Kwong-Tung province. Many of them gave a whole month's wages. Two young men in San dents there witnessed proved clearly the workings of the rich grace of God in their hearts. It is evident that the Chinese converts not only do live Christians but also die Christians.

LONG KEE'S TROUBLE.

Christian Chinaman's Wife Leading a Life of Shame.

Christian Chinaman's Wife Leading a Life of Shame.

Long Kee, a "Christian" Chinaman employed as a domestic at the Coronado Hotel, has domestic trouble, and he wants Chief of Police Glass to help him out. Long Kee has a "Christian" wife, or at least a wife who ought to be a Christian, for she was educated at a Chinese mission, like Long Kee has fallen from grace, deserted her husband's bed and board and is at present leading a life of shame in Chinatown, this city. This makes Long Kee very sad, and he has written to Chief Glass twice asking his assistance in redeeming her from her evil ways. A photograph of the woman was inclosed in each letter. The picture represents her to be a comely almond-eyed dame, dressed in the height of American fashion, puffed sleeves and all. The police have not as yet discovered the woman, but Long Kee himself will be in the city today to assist in the search. Kee's letters to the Chief, which are gems of "English as she is wrote" by Chinese graduates of the mission schools, are appended, and speak for thmselves:

IN A NEW ROLE.

Count von Houbert as a Reader o

the Stars.
The City Tax Collector is looking fo The City Tax Collector is looking for Count von Houbert. Everybody is familiar with the history of the Count. The advertising he has received through te press by reason of his unique experiences, threats and general mouthings, would be worth millions to him in a reputable line of business. Unfortunately the transactions of the Count in the past have been rather shady than nately the transactions of the Count in the past have been rather shady than otherwise, and his notoriety avails him naught. His latest role assumed is that of an alleged fortune teller. The Count or doctor, it is claimed, has done a rushing business in the horoscope line, but has neglected hitherto to pay the $10 a month which the city exacts as license for this sort of business. City Clerk Luckenbach received the information on Saturday that the Count was derelict in his payment, and immediately filled out a blank license which was put into the hands of the Tax Collector for collection. Thus far the seer has not been seen. The penalty for practicing as a fortune teller without a license is a fine of not over $200 or 100 days in the chain gang, or both.

BEER AND BLOOD.

It Was Statesman Savage Who Did the Gallant Act.

It developed yesterday that the man rho so gallantly jumped into the reach when a woman cut her hand on beer glass at the Palace restaurant Sunday evening, and prevented her from doing herself further injury, was no less distinguished personage than a no less instantiation of the councilman from the Eighth Ward. Statesman from the Eighth Ward. Statesman Savage, when interviewed anent the matter, admitted that the facts were substantially as published in The Times yesterday, but his innate modesty prompts him to request that his name be not mentioned in connection with the affair, as he did not claim any credit for what he had done.

It is learned from another source, however, that the woman, who evidently knew the Hon. Tom and had a grudge against him, came up to the table where he was slitting and began to abuse him in language that was far from being chaste. Before the Councilman could beat a dismital, retreat the Thomas F. Savage, the Council-to abuse him in language that was far from being chaste. Before the Councilman could beat a dignified retreat, the inturiated female brought her hand down on a beer glass, cutting her wrist and causing the claret to flow. This added fuel to her wrath, and snatching a beer mug, she huried it at the Councilman's head. Fortunately her aim was bad, and the beer pot was shattered to smitherens against an iron pier. Then it was that the statesman from the "Bloody Eighth" seized the fury by the arm and held her till the waiters and others present were able

Eye-witnesses state that it was a narrow escape for Mr. Savage, notwithstanding the fact that he modestly disclaims that he was exposed to any danger or mixed up in the affair at all further than to prevent the woman from doing any further injury to herself after she had cut her band on the hear glass.

Mr. Savage assured the reporter that Mr. Savage assured the reporter that he did not know the woman and had had no trouble with her whatever. He had simply strolled into the Palace with a few friends to get a bite to eat and drink a glass of beer, a pleasure which should not be denied even to a city Councilman. It happened that he sat down to a table near a box in which were several women who appeared to be somewhat under the influence of liquor. One of them ordered beer, and because the waiter refused to serve it she smashed an empty beer glass with her hand, thereby cutting her wrist. It was merely as a disinterested spectator that he then rushed in and held her before she could do more violence in her drunken rage. The women, he said, were intoxicated when they came in, and were refused drink at the Palace, the managers of which are therefore not to blame for the affair.

The Trade Review is now in its fourth year of publication, and is on the road to success.

Don't Miss

A great curiosity valued at $25,000 now on exhibition in our middle window. A lifesized carved figure of the Jinricksha coolie that saved the life of the Czarowitch, the present Czar of Russia.

The figure is attached to the identical vehicle in which the Czarowitz sat at the time of the incident referred to. These coolles travel as far as an ordinary horse, averaging from 25 to 80 miles a day.

This is the first public exhibition in this country of the figure. We have secured it for one week only, at a great expense. From here it goes to San Francisco and thence east.
